

Dear Friends:

Welcome to Indiana University's 2009 Winter Commencement. Together, on this great day of celebration, we pause to honor the tremendous accomplishments of our graduates. This is their shining moment.

Coming from across the state of Indiana, throughout the nation, and around the world, they have become a part of the fabric of excellence woven at Indiana University over the course of nearly two centuries. In subjects ranging from accounting to zoology, they have drawn on their intelligence, talents, and tenacity to achieve mastery and prepare for the challenges of tomorrow. We honor their achievements today and recognize the challenges they have already faced, and overcome, as they have pursued their dreams.

This day has been years in the making: years of study and years of support. Our graduates have reached this wonderful day propelled by the love, encouragement, and faith of their families and friends. The strength of that support helps each of us achieve our highest aspirations and deserves our deepest gratitude. Today is as much a day to share that gratitude as to celebrate.

Indiana University's class of 2009 will always be a part of IU's rich and living history. Having dedicated themselves to the pursuit of academic excellence, driven by curiosity and intellectual passion, our graduates are now poised on the cusp of ever greater accomplishments. We will remember and celebrate them always, wishing them the greatest success in the future.

Most sincerely,

THE STAR-SPANGLED BANNER

O say, can you see, by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight's last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars, through the perilous fight,
O'er the ramparts we watched, were so gallantly streaming?
And the rockets' red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there.
O say, does that Star-Spangled Banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

HAIL TO OLD I.U.

Come and join in song together,
Shout with might and main;
Our beloved Alma Mater,
Sound her praise again.

Chorus

Gloriana, Frangipana,
E'er to her be true;
She's the pride of Indiana,
Hail to old I.U.!
—Joe T. Giles, Class of 1894

COMMENCEMENT CEREMONIES

The audience is requested to remain until the conclusion of the ceremonies.

The exercises of the one hundred eightieth annual Commencement are enacted today at Indiana University Bloomington. The counterpart of the pageantry enacted each year on campuses all over the world, it is the solemn climax and recognition of the graduates' years of study and preparation for responsibility.

To help spectators understand the significance of the ceremonies, the following description is furnished.

PROCESSION

Leading the procession immediately behind the flag bearers is the grand marshal, bearing the ceremonial Mace, emblematic of the authority of the state and university. The grand marshal is attired in a white brocade gown and a cap with a gold metallic tassel. A gold satin sash with gold tassels hangs from the shoulder. Immediately following the grand marshal are the president and members of the trustees of the university. The president, as his badge of office, wears a jewel, emblematic of the history of the state and the university.

The trustees of the university can be identified by their red gowns, which have red velvet panels and red velvet chevrons on the sleeves. The panels and chevrons are outlined in cream, and an Indiana University seal appears on the left panel. The trustees wear black caps trimmed in cream with gold metallic tassels. Faculty and head marshals wear shoulder sashes of various colors and designs.

Led by the marshals, the candidates march behind the identification banners of the respective schools that recommended them for their degrees:

College of Arts and Sciences
Indiana University Kelley School of Business
School of Continuing Studies
School of Education
School of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation
School of Informatics and Computing
School of Journalism
Indiana University Michael Maurer School of Law
School of Library and Information Science

School of Medicine
Indiana University Jacobs School of Music
School of Nursing
School of Optometry
School of Public and Environmental Affairs
School of Social Work
University Graduate School

As the candidates reach their seats, the members of the faculties of Indiana University march in, wearing the colorful hoods of the colleges and universities from which they graduated.

The climax of the processional brings to the platform the deans of the various schools, honorary degree recipients, state officials, and university officers.

ACADEMIC ATTIRE

All candidates for degrees and those who hold these degrees, including university officials and faculty and visiting dignitaries, are attired in traditional caps and gowns. The basic color for most caps and gowns is formal black. Recipients of different degrees wear distinctive tassels on their caps (the flat, square caps are called mortarboards) and hoods of various hues draped down the backs of the gowns.

CAPS

Candidates for degrees wear the regulation cap with the tassel color appropriate to the degrees being conferred.

The list of tassel colors follows:

Arts and Sciences—White
Business—Drab
Continuing Studies—Silver Gray
Education—Light Blue
Graduate—Royal Blue
Health, Physical Education, and Recreation—Sage Green
Informatics and Computing—Copper
Journalism—Cardinal
Labor Studies—Nile Green
Law—Royal Purple
Library and Information Science—Lemon Yellow
Medicine—Kelly Green
Music—Pink
Nursing—Apricot
Optometry—Aqua

Public and Environmental Affairs—Peacock
Blue
Social Work—Citron

GOWNS AND STOLES

The bachelor's and associate's gowns have a closed front and open sleeves. Candidates for bachelor's and associate degrees also wear stoles. The master's gown has extremely long, closed sleeves, from which the arms extend through a slit at the wrist; the end of the sleeve is square, with an arc cut away just above the bottom. The doctor's gown has velvet panels down the front, and voluminous bell-shaped sleeves on which there are three velvet bars.

HOODS

The bachelor's hood is worn only by those who already hold bachelor's degrees. It is rather short, with a narrow velvet edging of the appropriate color (see list of tassels) and a lining in the color or colors of the institution—crimson at Indiana.

The master's hood is considerably longer, has a wider velvet edging, and exposes more of the lining.

The doctor's hood is easily recognized by the width of the velvet edging, the wide panels at either side, the greater length, and the full exposure of the lining. The colors of the edging most frequently seen are royal blue for philosophy, green for medicine, royal purple for laws, light blue for education, and aqua for optometry; the colors for the honorary doctoral degrees are royal purple for Doctor of Laws, white for Doctor of Humane Letters, golden yellow for Doctor of Science, and pink for Doctor of Music.

HONORS: GRADUATING WITH DISTINCTION

Indiana University holds all of its graduates in high esteem and takes an added measure of pride in those who have excelled academically. Candidates who are graduating with distinction, high distinction, and highest distinction are entitled to wear on their left shoulders the fourragère, cream and crimson cords. In addition, on some campuses, qualified students are entitled to wear gold medallions indicating that they are graduating with honors.

The recorders in each school distribute fourragères to qualified students before Commencement. The requirements for graduating with honors are different for each school.

HONORS CORDS

Graduates who are members of nearly 60 nationally recognized honor societies may wear their societies' honors cords or medallions during Commencement.

The white tab under the button on the caps worn by certain law candidates indicates their selection by the Order of the Coif, a scholastic honor society. Law candidates who have tentatively received honors also wear the fourragère.

The gold medallion on a cream and crimson cord indicates the candidates graduating from the Hutton Honors College. Honors College candidates who have tentatively received honors also wear the fourragère.

SYMBOLS

Traditional in all formal ceremonies of Indiana University are the Mace, symbol of authority; the Jewel of Office, emblematic of the Office of the President; and the Collar of the Jewel of Office. The first is carried in academic procession by the grand marshal, and the last two are worn by the president. In design and ornamentation they represent significant events in the history of the state of Indiana and of the university.

The treasured symbols were presented to the university by its chapters of the Miami Triad in celebrating their centennials. The Jewel of Office was presented by Beta Theta Pi in 1945; the Mace was given by Phi Delta Theta in 1949; and the Collar of the Jewel of Office by Sigma Chi in 1958.

THE HISTORY OF ACADEMIC ATTIRE

Academic costume of today has a history of nearly eight centuries. In medieval Europe, all townspeople—men and women—wore long, flowing robes and gowns. The materials and colors varied according to the wealth and rank of the individual and were governed by royal decree. Gradually, there developed distinctive gowns for the various professions, trades, and guilds.

Students in the medieval universities of Paris, Bologna, Oxford, and Cambridge organized themselves into guilds. Their usual garb, a long gown, was necessary for warmth in the unheated buildings. Scholars, generally members of church orders, wore these robes and also hoods to protect their shaved heads. Later, skullcaps were worn on the head, and the hood became a cape that could be pulled over the head in unpleasant weather. As additional universities were founded, distinctive forms of the gown and hood were adapted by their faculties for bachelors (apprentices of arts), masters (teachers), and doctors (teachers who had completed postgraduate studies). The variations appeared mostly in the hood and were regulated by strict rules. Tailors who departed from the authorized design could be punished. When caps and hats came into fashion in the fifteenth century, the hoods became ornamental, draped over the shoulders and down the back.

The academic hat was adapted from the headdress of the ordinary people. It was first worn as a symbol of the master's degree and existed in various forms. Some caps were stiff, some soft, some square, some round with a tuft in the center. The tassel of today is an elaboration of the tuft. The mortarboard style comes to us from Oxford University.

When academic costume came to America in 1754, styles were quite varied. In Europe they still are; however, in our country, usage has been standardized by the Intercollegiate Code of Academic Costume.

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER AND HONORARY DEGREE CANDIDATE

The Honorable Robert M. Gates

Doctor of Humane Letters

U.S. Secretary of Defense Robert M. Gates, who was sworn in to his position in 2006 by President George W. Bush, is the nation's twenty-second secretary of defense and the only defense secretary in U.S. history to be asked to remain in that office by a newly elected president, President Barack Obama, who is the eighth president under whom Gates has served. This distinction is representative of Gates' life of service to the nation.

His preparation for public service included graduate study at Indiana University, where he earned a master's degree in history in 1966. Gates chose to enroll in IU as a graduate student because of its position as "a national leader in the field of Russian and East European Studies and U.S. Foreign Affairs," says David Ransel, the Robert F. Byrnes Professor of History and director of the Russian and East European Institute at IU Bloomington.

Gates was recruited from IU to work at the Central Intelligence Agency. In 1967, he was commissioned as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force and served for one year as an intelligence officer at Whiteman Air Force Base in Missouri. Returning to the CIA, he resumed a career in intelligence that spanned 27 years. In 1986 he advanced to deputy director of central intelligence and, in 1991, director of central intelligence. He is the only career officer in the CIA's history to rise from entry-level employee to director. During this same period Gates served as assistant to the president and deputy national security advisor.

During his long career as an intelligence professional, he earned the National Security Medal, the Presidential Citizens Medal, the National Intelligence Distinguished Service Medal two times, and the CIA's highest award, the Distinguished Intelligence Medal, three times.

After retiring from the CIA in 1993, Gates spent several years lecturing and writing and published an autobiography, From the Shadows: The Ultimate Insider's Story of Five Presidents and How They Won the Cold War, in 1996. Beginning in 1999 Gates served as interim dean of the George Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University.

In 2002 he became president of Texas A&M, where he undertook major initiatives that have been noted throughout higher education. "Secretary Gates is an immensely respected public servant and one of Indiana University's most distinguished alumni," says IU President Michael A. McRobbie. "He boasts a long and accomplished career, spanning his time in the military, central intelligence, business, and academia, and he has earned plaudits from both sides of the political aisle. Indeed, President Obama's decision to retain his services as secretary of defense spoke volumes about the strength of his service to our nation. He is a strong, wise, and diplomatic leader, and we are extremely honored that he has agreed to share some of his experiences and insights with us."

In 2006 President George W. Bush asked him to rejoin the government as secretary of defense during an especially challenging time in our nation's history. Gates' service in that position under both Presidents Bush and Obama has been widely lauded.

In addition to his master's degree from IU, Gates holds a bachelor's degree from the College of William and Mary and a doctorate in Russian and Soviet history from Georgetown University. His wife, Rebecca, also earned a master's degree at IU, completing a program in counseling at the School of Education in 1967. The couple has two adult children, Eleanor and Bradley. Eleanor is a 1997 graduate of the IU School of Journalism.
