Meet Joe Grant

Police officer, PhD, and Louisville community hero honored as SCS 2007 Distinguished Alumnus of the Year

By December 2009, Joseph S. Grant, BGS’96, anticipates adding a PhD to the end of his name — something he wouldn’t have dreamed when he left the Bloomington campus in 1983, one year and many credits shy of his bachelor’s degree. He’d found a job that he loved, working as a police officer for the Louisville Metro Police Department, and went on with his life.

Still, the lack of a degree gnawed at him, especially when he spoke to students about the importance of staying in school and getting a degree.

Finally, in 1992, Grant decided to do something about it. He enrolled in the General Studies Degree Program at Indiana University Southeast. “The general studies degree gave me more variety in topics to study, and allowed me to get a multitude of disciplines under my belt,” Grant said. “I thought I knew what I wanted to do with my life — and I was already there — but I felt like I needed that degree. General studies was a perfect fit.”

Somewhere along the way, Grant discovered a new calling: teaching. After earning his bachelor’s degree, he continued his education at the University of Louisville, where he earned a master’s degree in justice administration and is now completing a PhD.

Grant retired from the Louisville Metro Police Department in February 2008. He is now a criminal justice instructor at the University of Louisville. “I have been so fortunate that things have fallen into place. A lot of it I attribute to people at IUS, particularly one of my professors, Mary Ann Baker, who was instrumental in helping me make the transition from law enforcement to academics.”

In addition to Grant’s work as a police officer and college instructor, he remains active in his community and with the IUS campus. Throughout his career in law enforcement, he has talked at schools and to community organizations on topics ranging from crime to diversity. He started the D.A.R.E. program in the Greater Clark County School Corp. and participated in a 300-mile bicycle ride from Michigan to Kentucky to raise awareness about child abuse.

On the IUS campus, Grant served on the alumni board for three years, and on the chancellor’s review committee. He was named Officer of the Year by both the Jeffersonville Police Department and the Louisville Metro Police Department.

SCS teams up with IUE, IUPUC, IUPUI to offer semester-based online courses

The IU School of Continuing Studies has joined forces with Indiana University East, Indiana University-Purdue University Columbus, and Indiana University-Purdue University Indianapolis to begin offering semester-based courses in an online format.

At IU East
The partnership with IU East allows undergraduate School of Continuing Studies students to register for 25 interactive online courses in fall 2008. These semester-based courses offer students the opportunity to:

• engage in online chat sessions,
• take exams online,
• and apply for federal student loan support.

Additional interactive online courses will be available in the future.

At IUPUC and IUPUI
Partnerships with IUPUC and IUPUI make School of Continuing Studies’ online courses available to degree-seeking students from these campuses. Students will consult with their advisors to be sure they select the right SCS courses to help them fulfill degree requirements.

Fourteen courses will be available at IUPUI in fall 2008, and eight will be available at IUPUC. More courses will be added next year.

INSIDE THIS ISSUE:

2 :: More online, on-campus options
3 :: Washington, D.C. opportunity
4 :: Class notes
6 :: How to sell your GS degree

This publication is paid for in part by dues-paying members of the Indiana University Alumni Association.
View from the dean

School launches statewide awareness campaign

The School of Continuing Studies was founded more than 50 years ago to provide courses and degrees to nontraditional students. Since then, the school has served thousands of learners in Indiana and around the world, both on campus and through distance education.

Since becoming dean 18 months ago, I’ve heard from many general studies alumni who used their degree to advance in their careers, go on to graduate or professional schools, and acquire a sense of achievement. Their stories are inspiring.

General studies holds promise as a degree completion program for the more than 650,000 Hoosiers who have graduated from high school but do not have a college diploma. For this reason, the school recently launched an initiative to raise awareness about the General Studies Degree Program in Indiana.

We began with a grassroots campaign in areas of the state not served by an Indiana University campus. We placed ads in newspapers and aired spots on major radio stations, informing audiences about the opportunity to earn a general studies degree online.

Our next step is to send a letter to selected individuals who began — but did not finish — a degree program at Indiana University. The letter invites these “stopouts” to return to IU to finish either their original degree or a general studies degree.

We anticipate a sustained effort to help those who express an interest to create the appropriate match between their academic pursuits and their personal and professional goals.

If you have ideas about ways to raise awareness in your community, or if you would be willing to assist in our efforts to help more Hoosier adults earn their degree, I invite you to contact me and share your thoughts. My phone is (812) 855-1538, and my email address is callison@indiana.edu.

— Daniel J. Callison, Dean

Callison joined the School of Continuing Studies as dean in January 2007. Formerly, he was executive associate dean of the School of Library and Information Science at IUPUI.

General Studies director visits Hong Kong Institute

General Studies Degree Program Director Dan Bopp spent five days in Hong Kong recently, where he toured the facilities of the Hong Kong Institute of Continuing Education. The Indiana University School of Continuing Studies and HKICE have been working together since 2003 to bring the IU general studies degree to students in Hong Kong. HKICE students complete SCS distance education course work at an on-site location. “I was impressed by the facilities and the support students receive through HKICE,” said Bopp. “Administrators provide close monitoring of student academic progress, with a clearly demonstrated conscientiousness for course preparation and concern for student academic and personal well being.”

Students are required to maintain an attendance rate of 80 percent or better, and are also required to complete 10 hours of volunteer service and 10 hours of extracurricular activity during each school year.

“The students I spoke with have a high regard for the IU degree, and feel both honored and challenged as IU students,” said Bopp. “The language barrier provides the greatest challenge to students, but they are committed to success and feel supported by the HKICE personnel.”

The School of Continuing Studies has a long history of serving students in foreign countries and is active in its pursuit of agreements with organizations dedicated to helping international students complete a U.S. degree at a distance.

Bopp left Hong Kong with an enriched sense of enthusiasm and energy for the efforts being made by the School of Continuing Studies, not only in Hong Kong, but also in various other locations around the world.

For more information about SCS courses and programs available to students at a distance, call (800) 334-1011, send an email to scs@indiana.edu, or visit the Web at scs.indiana.edu.

Additional programs available from SCS

Indiana University High School – a virtual high school offering more than 100 high school courses, 60 dual-credit courses, and advanced placement courses in English, chemistry, U.S. history, and math, as well as a high school diploma and honors diploma program.

Online Master of Science in Adult Education – a master’s degree program offered completely online, with only one required, three-day weekend spent on campus. The Master of Science in Adult Education can be tailored to meet the specific interests and career goals of individual students.
Washington, D.C., program explores U.S. presidency

Prominent scholars and guests from Indiana University and the University of Kansas will lend their expertise to "The American Presidency: The Glorious Burden Uncovered," a lifelong learning program to be held in Washington, D.C., this fall.

Sponsored by the IU School of Continuing Studies, IU Alumni Association, and Smithsonian Associates, the program will explore the most powerful office in the world.

"While previous programs we have developed with the Smithsonian Associates have included many government experts and Washington-area professors, this year we plan to build on that and include the scholarship of our own Indiana University faculty," School of Continuing Studies Dean Daniel Callison said.

IU presenters include Lee Hamilton, JD '56, Marjorie Hershey, professor in the IU Department of Political Science, and James Madison, MA '68, PhD '72, and Thomas and Kathryn Miller Professor in the IU Department of History.

They will be joined by Diana Carlin, dean-in-residence for the Council of Graduate Schools in Washington, D.C. and professor of communication studies at the University of Kansas.

"During the program, these experts will be on hand to ask — and help to answer — provocative questions about the presidency as an office, the men who have occupied it, and the candidates currently contending for it," said Callison.

"We look forward to involving similarly renowned experts in future programs."

Attendees can also look forward to:

- a reception with special guests George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, and Theodore Roosevelt;
- dining at the Old Ebbitt Grill, National Press Club, Smithsonian Castle, and a foreign embassy;
- a private, behind-the-scenes tour of the National Portrait Gallery;
- a guided tour of the White House and Mount Vernon;

"The American Presidency: The Glorious Burden Uncovered" will be held Sept. 16-19, 2008. The cost for the event is $1,795 through June 27, and $1,895 thereafter. Registration deadline is July 15. For more information, call (812) 855-8995.

Speaker snapshots

Lee Hamilton, JD '56, is director of the Center on Congress at Indiana University; president and director of the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars; and former vice chairman of the 9/11 Commission. Hamilton is also a member of the President's Homeland Security Advisory Council, and a 34-year congressman in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Marjorie Hershey is author of three books and numerous articles on political campaigns and debates, elections, journalism, and politics. Hershey directs the Leadership, Ethics, and Social Action program at IU Bloomington. She is recipient of the 2001 and 2007 Trustees Teaching Award for the College of Arts and Sciences.

James Madison, MA '68, PhD '72, is author of numerous books and articles on 20th-century, Indiana, and World War II history. The two-time Fulbright Professor is director of the Liberal Arts and Management Program at IU Bloomington and an Organization of American Historians Distinguished Lecturer.

Diana Carlin, dean-in-residence for the Council of Graduate Schools in Washington, D.C., and professor of communication studies at the University of Kansas. Carlin is creator of DebateWatch, a research project studying voter reactions to political debates, and a member of the University of Kansas Women's Hall of Fame.
Class notes

1980s
William R. Lee, BGS '82, is a clinical program specialist at Cornerstone of Recovery, a drug and alcohol treatment facility in Louisville, Tenn.

Durleen L. Braasch, AGS/BGS '83, received a President's Award from the IU Alumni Association in December 2005. The award is the highest honor that the association bestows on alumni volunteers. Braasch is a fundraising consultant in South Bend, Ind., and secretary and scholarship chair of the IU South Bend Alumni Association board of directors. In 2005, the Michiana chapter of the Association of Fundraising Professionals honored her for her volunteer work in the community.

Nancy Samardzija Buckley, BGS '85, of Crown Point, Ind., has been a client service representative for Interim Health Care in Merrillville, Ind., for more than 15 years. Her address is nabo04@aol.com.

Nancy Fingueira Baxter, BGS '86, reports, "My three children are in school full time. I am starting a furniture restoration and home furnishings business." She lives in Forest Hills, N.Y.

Robert B. Fong Sr., AGS '88, Cert '89, BGS '89, MPA '92, of Kapolei, Hawaii, retired from the U.S. Department of Labor on Jan. 31, 2005, and is a doctoral candidate in policy and public administration with an interest in homeland security at Walden University. Fong is also a candidate to represent the 19th district in the Senate of the Hawaii Legislature. In addition, he is president of the Palehua Community Association, an ordained Lutheran deacon, and a division captain in the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, where he is involved with search and rescue as well as marine-environment and public-education programs.

Debra P. Bunch, AS '89, Cert '94, BGS '01, is a COA for the American Eye Institute, New Albany, Ind.

J. Rex Burton, AGS '89, BGS '92, is co-owner with his brother of Computer Repair Now, a computer repair shop in Bloomington, Ind.

1990s
Nolan Harrison III, BGS '91, had a 10-year career in the National Football League, playing with the Los Angeles and Oakland Raiders, the Pittsburgh Steelers, and the Washington Redskins. He is now serving his first term on the eight-man steering committee of the National Football League Players Association. Harrison is the vice president of the Northern Trust Co., a bank in Phoenix. The I-Man in football lives in Scottsdale, Ariz.

Retha Cornwell Swain, BGS '91, BS '93, MS '02, writes, "I just completed my first year as an assistant principal at Crispus Attucks Middle School, and I loved going to work and school everyday. My daughter will start sixth grade there in the fall. I am presently the assistant principal at Merle Sidener Middle School, an Indianapolis Public School."

Bruce T. Strom, BGS '92, is an associate professor of management at Park University's Fort Bliss, Texas, campus. He lives in Las Cruces, N.M.

Stew Robinson, BGS '93, has been selected to the Indiana Basketball Hall of Fame's 2007 and men's Silver Anniversary team, which recognizes high school graduates from 1982. Robinson was a standout at Anderson Madison Heights High School, earning all-state honors. In his four seasons as a Hoosier, he played in 113 games and averaged 5.6 points and 3.5 assists. Robinson is an assistant coach for the men's basketball team at Texas Tech University in Lubbock, where he lives.

Carla Battaglia Greene, BGS '94, of Beavercreek, Ohio, threw the 600-pound javelin 42.05 meters at the Cedarville University (Ohio) Throwing Classic on Sept. 5. Pending ratification, her mark will become the new American record for the 40-44 age group.

Julie Perkins Nelson, BGS '94, JD '97, is chief counsel for the Maritime Administration within the U.S. Department of Transportation.

Jason R. Steele, BGS '94, AS '95, was the composer for the short film "Sugar Mountain," which won the Goldsmith Group Audience Award for best short film at the Indianapolis International Film Festival in 2006.

Matthew Webster, BGS '94, has worked with General Electric for eight years. He and his wife, Kristine (Darrington), BA '92, have 2-year-old twins and a 6-year-old. They have lived in Indianapolis, Denver, Tampa, Fla., and now Atlanta.

Bloomington, Ind., Mayor Mark Krzan appointed Jason R. Banach, Cert '95, BGS '96, to a four-year term on the city's utilities-service board. Banach previously served on the city council. He is assistant director of real estate for IU, and he has responsibilities on all eight IU campuses.

Loreal Reville Maguire, AGS '95, BS '97, MS '01, is interim director of professional studies at Millersville (Pa.) University. In October 2007 she successfully defended her dissertation to receive a doctorate of education degree in adult education from Penn State University. Maguire lives in Lancaster, Pa.

Michael A. Olejnik, BGS '95, writes, "I would love to hear from any of my old friends from college. Feel free to e-mail me at mianol72@hotmail.com." He is the developmental training administrator for Oak Leyden Developmental Services Inc. in Illinois.

Michael J. Westfall, BGS '95, is vice president for university advancement at Eastern Washington University in Cheney, Wash. He previously served as associate vice president for university advancement at Radford University in Virginia.

Craig J. Atkins, BGS '96, has worked for McGraw-Hill Publishing, Disney Interactive, and Edmunds Inc. At IU Bloomington, Atkins was a member of the football team and was a six-time Alpha Beta academic honoree. The I-Man in football lives with his family in North Hollywood, Calif.

Maritza Quiñones-Rivera, BGS '96, MIS '99, is working on a doctorate in communications research at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

Michelle Hildenbrandt Arntmeier, BGS '97, MIS '04, is associate director for sponsored research services at IUPUI. She lives in Carmel, Ind.

Jenny R. Massey, BGS '97, is senior manager of client services at Ginovus in Indianapolis. Massey previously worked in Nagoya, Japan, as a strategic business adviser and communications consultant. She has also worked in Rome. Massey is a member of the Japan America Society of Indiana and is an honorary ambassador to the city of Nagoya.

Eric D. McIntosh, BGS '97, is vice president and treasurer of Hoosier Times Inc., which publishes The Herald-Times newspaper in Bloomington, Ind., the Times-Mail in Bedford, the Reporter-Times in Martinsville, the Mooresville Times, and the Sunday issue of Hoosier Times.
Detra Perry Mills, AS ’97, BGS ’99, of Fishers, Ind., received project-management professional certification on June 11. She has worked for Roche Diagnostics in Indianapolis for five years.

In October, Kevin E. Mumaw, BGS ’97, reported that he has served in the U.S. Army for eight years of active duty. He is now a captain with the 101st Airborne Division and has completed two rotations in Iraq as a division operations planner. He is married with a 5-year-old son.

Timothy C. Oldham, BGS ’97, is the director of security at the Muhammad Ali Center in Louisville, Ky. Before joining the center, Oldham was an emergency-management coordinator in Florida. He received the 2006 Davis Productivity Award for his planning, response, and recovery action during the 2004 and 2005 hurricane seasons. Oldham and his wife, LynneBeth, live in New Albany, Ind., and have two children.

Jasmine Hickey Sylviebeck, AGS ’97, BA ’00, is an account executive at Netbank Inc. in Jacksonville, Fla. She writes, “I met my husband, John, ’00, my senior year at IU Bloomington — so, luckily, it took me six years to graduate. After two years in Indianapolis, we moved to sunny Neptune Beach, Fla. We are still big IU fans, love to visit on the holidays, and follow IU sports.”

J. Andrew Cassis II, BGS ’98, and Angela M. (Berkemeier), BS ’99, have had their first child, Claire Elizabeth Cassis. The couple married in 2003 in Bloomington, Ind. Andrew is a specialty sales manager at Anthem Blue Cross and Blue Shield in Louisville, Ky.

LaShona L. Donica, BGS ’98, sponsored by the Bedford (Ind.) Rotary Club in Southern Indiana’s Rotary District 6580, was awarded a Rotary Foundation Ambassadorial Scholarship. Donica plans to study education and technology at the University of Cape Town in Africa. She is pursuing a master of science degree in education technology from Indiana State University in Terre Haute.

Mitch L. Herald, BGS ’98, is vice president of sales and marketing for United Trailers. He lives in Union, Mich.

William K. Jeffers, BGS ’98, a member of the Bloomington (Ind.) Police Department, was honored in October 2005 by the U.S. Attorney’s Office for the Southern District of Indiana for his participation in a multi-agency investigation of a heroin-trafficking organization.

Earlon L. Hollowell III, BGS ’99, is a case manager at the Midtown Community Mental Health Center. He works with Midtown’s Indianapolis Public Schools program.

2000s
Kathryn “Kate” Nocks Braun, BGS ’00, and David Wierhake, BA ’85, both of Bloomington, Ind., have day jobs but “sing” for their supper as actors in productions at the Indiana Repertory Theatre in Indianapolis. Last fall they ap-

(continued on page 6)

Survey says: December GSD Alumni Survey results are in!

This past December, Dean Daniel J. Callison sent out a request to alumni asking for feedback regarding personal experiences with the General Studies Degree Program, and for information about how earning the degree affected the personal and professional lives of our graduates. A few of the items from that survey are summarized below.
Sell your IU General Studies Degree to potential employers

General Studies is a multidisciplinary degree program often misunderstood by those who haven’t earned one. This can be frustrating for graduates seeking employment opportunities or promotions.

Try these tips:

☐ When listing your degree on your résumé, be sure to include any minors or certificates you completed.

☐ In your cover letter, highlight specific examples of how your education prepared you for the job to which you are applying.

☐ Have a few key words and phrases ready that can best explain your degree in an interview. Graduates we’ve spoken to describe their degree program as “providing a broad spectrum of insights” or “like getting seven degrees in one.”

☐ Be proud of your degree. If you are confident in the skills you acquired while earning it, others will be likely to believe in your degree, too.

Class notes
(continued from page 5)

peared in Inherit the Wind, in which Braun took on several roles and Wierhake performed on pump organ, harmonica, guitar, and tuba. They also appeared together in Grapes of Wrath at the IRT. Braun is a customer assistant at Border’s Books & Music; Wierhake is a copywriter for Hirons & Co.

Vanessa M. Cochran, BGS’00, writes that she and her husband, Eric, BS’93, have both furthered their educations by earning master’s degrees in business management and administration. She adds that she and Eric met through the Groups Program and calls her time with the program “the best years of my life.”

Rachael Petru Horowitz, Cert/BGS’00, is the senior development associate for Hadassah, the Women’s Zionist Organization of America. She travels to Hadassah communities on the West Coast and in the Midwest, where she works with donors and fundraisers and creates awareness of Hadassah’s projects in Israel. Horowitz is also a Jeremiah fellow through the Progressive Jewish Alliance. She works and lives in Los Angeles and married her husband, Josh, in December 2005. Horowitz also serves as part-time director of communications for her husband’s company, Liquid Fitness.

Melissa A. Latosinski, Cert’00, BGS’02, AS’04, is a full-time dental hygienist. She lives in South Bend, Ind.

Margaret E. Hennings, BGS’01, is a medical-information supervisor for the University of Michigan Hospital’s Medical Information Services. In May 2006, she received an MBA from Northwood University in Midland, Mich. Hennings lives in Whitmore Lake.

Jamika R. Jones, BGS’01, writes, “I have a wonderful career, bought a beautiful home, and am the proud mother of a son, Jaden Michael.”

Paul E. Norris Jr., BGS’01, is chief of police at IUPUI. He writes that he is very happy to be back in Indianapolis after serving as the police chief for the University of Virginia in Charlottesville. Prior to that, Norris worked in the police departments at IUPUI and IU Bloomington and was chief of police at IUB. He lives in Carmel, Ind., and can be reached at penorris@iupui.edu.

Amanda R. Smith, BGS’01, MLS’06, is an adult reference librarian at the Broward County (Fla.) Public Library. She lives in Fort Lauderdale.

Angelica P. Williams-Rice, BGS’01, received her master’s degree in business management from Indiana Wesleyan University in Marion, Ind., and is pursuing a PhD from Walden University. She lives in Fishers, Ind.

Meghan K. Early, BGS’02, is a search consultant in the Chicago office of Solomon EdwardsGroup, a professional services firm. Previously, she worked as an account manager for Avis Budget Group, where she received the Account Manager of the Month award in June 2005 and the Best in Class award in 2005 and 2006. Prior to working at Avis Budget Group, Early served as an account executive for NextMedia. She lives in Chicago.

Timothy R. Hargis, BGS’02, of Louisville, Ky., works for the Raynostix Group, a medical-imaging company, as a sales consultant focusing on CT, ultrasound, bone-density, MRI, and X-ray sales. He can be reached at trhargis@aol.com. In October 2007, three IU alumni became associated at the law firm Barnes & Thornburg. Gunia Kirhnere, BGS’02, JD’07, and Andrew J. Kossack, JD’07, joined the firm’s Indianapolis office, while Andrew J. Naménye, BA’03, JD’07, joined the firm’s Elkhart, Ind., office.

LaTisha A. Reynolds, AGS’02, BA’06, is a family case manager for the state of Indiana. She lives in Gary, Ind.

Anna Bonifito Rinkenberger, BGS’02, BS’06, is pursuing a master’s degree in zoology at IU Bloomington. Her husband, Brandon, BME’01, is a project associate for the IUB Center for Evaluation and Education Policy. They live in Bloomington.

Christopher L. Stilwell, BGS’02, of New Castle, Ind., is a special-education teacher at Gallatin County High School in Warsaw, Ky. He is pursuing a master’s degree in learning and behavior disorders at Spalding University in Louisville. Stilwell can be reached at c_stilwell@msn.com.

Amy J. Wright, BGS’02, is a store manager at a CVS Pharmacy in Lawrenceburg, Ind., where she also lives.

Andrew R. Brehm, BGS’03, of Kokomo, Ind., is a technical sergeant in the U.S. Air Force at Grissom Air Reserve Base.
“I have been accepted for graduate studies at Norwich University [in Northfield, Vt.],” he writes. “I plan to receive a master’s degree in military studies.”

Matthew F. Van Voorhis, BGS’03, is enrolled in a sociology doctoral program at the University of Florida in Gainesville, where he also lives.

David R. Woods, BGS’03, is a stock clerk for Sullivan Foods. He lives and works in Morrison, Ill.

Nicole R. Kobrowski, MS’04, wrote in April that she was 18 months away from defending her doctoral dissertation at Ball State University in Muncie, Ind. She continues to expand her business, Unseenpress.com Inc., which promotes scientific paranormal research and educates and entertains people with interpretive history with a paranormal flavor. Unseenpress.com offers ghost walks and tours in Indianapolis and surrounding areas. Kobrowski, who lives in Westfield, is also an adjunct faculty member of IUPUI’s Adult Continuing Education Department.

Indiana National Guard Sgt. Timothy E. Miller, BGS’04, of Westville, Ind., is pursuing a master’s degree in clinical psychology. He served 489 days in Iraq, beginning in January 2004. In March 2005, Miller received a Combat Medic Award.

Ivan A. Record, BGS’04, is a systems services manager for student enrollment services at IU Bloomington.

Andrea Frosch Davis, BGS’05, has worked for Eli Lilly and Co. since May 1999. She is now an on-the-job trainer in a pharmaceutical manufacturing facility for cancer drugs. Davis plans to start the MBA evening program at the Kelley School of Business in the fall. She works in Indianapolis and lives in Franklin, Ind.

Jason R. Henderson, AA’05, has been elected as a surveyor of Tipton County, Ind. He serves as president of the Henderson Group, a land-surveying company.

Randolph W. Hoerschgen, BGS’05, owns and operates DecisionOne Mediation & Arbitration in Jefferson City, Mo. His services include divorce mediation, real-estate matters, landlord-tenant issues, victim-offender mediation, labor negotiations, and family conflicts. Hoerschgen has been appointed by the Missouri Bar to serve on the fee-dispute resolution committee to mediate between attorneys and clients.

Michele M. Mashburn, BGS’05, presented “Journaling and Storytelling Workshop” at Femme 2006 in August in San Francisco. She lives in San Jose, Calif.

John R. Sherrill, BGS’05, is a senior and field territory manager for Ormco Corp. in Orange, Calif. He and his wife, Carrie, had their first child, Anthony, on Nov. 16.

Arthur G. Stevenson III, BGS’05, has joined Hawley and Associates, a food brokerage firm in St. Louis, where he lives.

Ivanogna A. Jacques, BGS’06, of Indianapolis, is an instructional assistant to an autistic student at Pike High School in Indianapolis.

Scott Mossbarger, BGS’06, works at Texas Roadhouse in Bloomington, Ind.

Cynthia M. Profitt, MS’06, is assistant director of MBA career development at the University of Notre Dame. She lives in South Bend, Ind.

“Well, it took a while, but I finally finished my degree that I started in 1989. Glad that monkey is off my back,” writes Wayne E. Ice, BGS’07, of Castle Rock, Colo. “No rest for the weary, though . . . . I am now working on my master’s degree in health administration. This should complement my [associate’s] degree in nuclear medicine I received from Ball State University.”

John R. Von Arx IV, BGS’07, is an account executive for the search-engine optimization firm Slingshot SEO in Zionsville, Ind. He lives in Indianapolis.
We want to know: How can we better serve you?

Watch for a survey in your e-mail inbox.

Need to update your e-mail with the IUAA? Use the form below, or go to www.alumni.indiana.edu.

Continuing Studies Alumni: What’s new?

The IU Alumni Association is charged with maintaining records for all IU alumni. Please print as much of the following information as you wish. Its purpose, in addition to providing us with your class note, is to keep IU’s alumni records accurate and up to date.

To verify and update your information online, visit our online alumni directory at www.alumni.indiana.edu/directory.

Name ___________________________ Date __________________

Preferred name __________________

Last name while at IU __________________

IU Degree(s)/Yr(s) __________________

Soc. Sec. # or Student ID # __________________

Home address __________________

Home phone __________________

City __________________ State ______ Zip ______

Business title __________________

Company/Institution __________________

Company address __________________

Work phone __________________

City __________________ State ______ Zip ______

* E-mail __________________

* Home page URL __________________

* Please indicate clearly upper and lower case.

Mailing address preference: O Home O Business

Spouse name __________________

Last name while at IU __________________

IU Degree(s)/Yr(s) __________________

Your news: __________________

______________________________

______________________________

______________________________

* Please send information about IUAA programs, services, and communications.

Attach additional pages if necessary. Mail to the address above, or fax to (812) 855-8266.