

Take Back the Night 2009

Take Back the Night: April 28, 2009 5:30 pm in Alumni Hall
A fundraising walk and rally against domestic violence

2008 Stats:

of classes participating: 17
of people who walk: 375
Amount of money to raise: $12,000

2009 Goals:

of classes participating: 20
of people who walk: 450
Amount of money to raise: $15,000

Last year's highlights

Data collected from FSA, Faculty, and Rally Participants
Presentation of data at American Democracy Project National Conference
Clothesline Project
Van loads of items donated to the shelter

Exciting things for this year

Continuation of the Clothesline Project
Rape Aggression Defense classes
Partnership with Ivy Tech

Continuation of previous events

Class participation
Fundraising for the shelter
Rally and Walk
Essay Contest (?)

A reminder of what Take Back the Night is...

Take Back the Night/Angel Walk at IU Kokomo is a walk and rally against domestic violence. Beginning in 2006, faculty and staff collaborated with a local domestic violence shelter to draw attention to and make people aware of the issue of domestic violence and its impact on the individual, family, and community and also to raise money to support the domestic violence shelter.