Experience the excitement of Homecoming

Let me begin by congratulating the Marching Hundred alumni for your tremendous support in all of the activities of Ray Cramer's retirement year. We raised enough money for the commissioning project not only to fund the brilliant new composition for wind ensemble by Roger Cichy — Maestro! — but also to help support the Ray E. Cramer Scholarship Fund, which is now already an endowed scholarship! I know that Ray will always remember your generosity and support. The entire year leading up to his retirement weekend was filled with special memories for the Cramer family and for us all.

As we move forward, we in the IU Band Department are committed to maintaining the legacy of those who have gone before. When I think of the people who were named director of bands in the School of Music at IU before me — Daniel Martino, Ronald Gregory, Frederick C. Ebbs, and Ray E. Cramer — I am reminded of their dedication, musicianship, creativity, and expertise. I am determined to work hard to maintain what they built. Thanks for your messages of congratulations and support.

This letter is being read by hundreds of Marching Hundred alumni who still remember their participation in the IU marching band as one of the highlights of college. Every year, Homecoming at IU is a special time for everyone, but particularly for those of us who were members of the Marching Hundred as students. We return to remember those great days of fun, fellowship, and accomplishment. While graduation classes ranging from 2005 back through several decades will be represented, a spirit of unanimity is always present as we work together to produce an important part of the Homecoming activities.

The Marching Hundred Alumni Band will, once again, perform with the current Hundred in the pregame, halftime, and postgame shows. We have a new football coach who has really done a good job drumming up excitement for IU football. Ticket sales are already up from last year, so we are looking forward to the season with high hopes.

Every year, we have new people back to experience the activities of the IU Alumni Band. Many people come up to say how much they enjoy being back in Bloomington and participating in all of the great activities. I am always impressed by the tremendous excitement and loyalty that exists within the Alumni Band! Come and experience that excitement.

I look forward to seeing you at Homecoming 2005.

— Stephen W. Pratt

Painting a Rose-y future for IU football

There is no doubt head football coach Terry Hoepfner has painted a "Rose-y" picture for IU Football! All of us here at Indiana University are excited about the prospects of our first winning season in more than a decade! The Hundred has been ready for bowl action during that time and we're definitely ready now to hop the big bird to Pasadena to enjoy not only a Big 10 Championship, but a National Championship as well!

The 109th edition of the Hundred starts with around 100 rookies attending the first two days of Band Camp on Aug. 21–22, followed by the vets annual first meeting on Tuesday, Aug. 23. We invite all Hundred alumni and friends to our annual "Saturday Evening in the House" performance in Memorial Stadium on Aug. 27.

As many of you know, Doug Stotter, the assistant director of athletic bands, has accepted the director of bands position at the University of Texas at Arlington. We will miss Doug and wish him all the best at his new post. Brian Doyle, a recent graduate from the University of Michigan, will be filling Doug's shoes on an interim basis this fall.

In addition to Doug's departure, we have other

Department of Bands news. Steve Pratt has assumed his place as director of bands, and Scott Weiss, BS'90, an IU graduate, has been hired as the new associate director of bands. We congratulate Steve on his appointment, and we welcome Scott and Brian to campus.

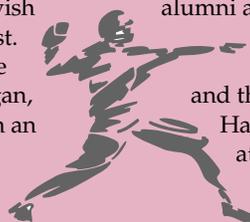

Joel Brainard returns as drumline instructor, and Janis Parker returns as RedStepper choreographer. Chris Heidenreich, Chad Nicholson, and John Franklin serve as our veteran AIs, and we welcome Matt Brunner as a new doctoral wind conductor.

We have six home football games this season, including our first two, which will kick off at 4 p.m. Please look for PowerPlay! each and every home game, one hour prior to kickoff. Our road trip takes us to Iowa City on Oct. 14–16, with a high-school stay on Friday night at Linn-Mar High School in Marion Iowa. We will be performing a standstill concert with their band that night — all Hoosier fans and Hundred alumni are welcome to attend.

As we say every year — we're Pasadena-bound, and this just might be the year.

Have a great fall; we'll see you at Homecoming!

— Dave Woodley, Director
IU Marching Hundred

Old friends begin new tradition

We are establishing a new tradition for the Friday night get-together of the Marching Hundred Alumni Band. We will be using our old friend, Marching Hundred Hall, as the gathering spot after the parade.

For those of you who were in the Hundred starting in the mid 1980s, you'll remember Hundred Hall as that quaint, out-of-the-way rehearsal space in the old University School. For those of you who were in Hundred prior to that time, Marching Hundred Hall is located in the Creative Arts building at 10th and the Bypass. To find an online map showing that location, visit www.iub.edu/~iubmap/mapredirect.pl?select=BL574&Go=Go%21.

Parking is available in two areas — behind the complex on the lined, football field parking lot (follow the access road off of the Bypass around back by the golf course's driving range) and in front of the Creative Arts Building. Marching Hundred Hall is located in room 143 of the complex.

It is possible to "go back home again" and visit the site of so many wonderful rehearsals. We hope to see you at Marching Hundred Hall for this year's Alumni Band reception on Friday, Oct. 7!

Show your pride with a new sweatshirt

Every instrument needs an occasional tuning. Likewise, the Marching Hundred alumni sweatshirts needed a tune-up in order to represent the quality and pride of our alumni.

During its May meeting, the Marching Hundred Alumni Council decided to update the alumni sweatshirts. The new alumni sweatshirts will have an embroidered logo and will match the design of the current polo shirts, giving us a more uniform look. You can order your sweatshirt using the registration form in this newsletter.

See you at the Homecoming festivities on Oct. 7-8!

Take part in a (Newell) Long tradition

The Marching Hundred honors an alumnus/alumna with the Newell Long Award during Homecoming festivities. This award, a traditional part of the Hundred's fall program, is given to that alumnus/alumna whom the committee believes best exemplifies the high professional standards and contributions set forth by Professor Long in his long association with IU.

There are few individuals who can approach his degree of excellence. For decades, Long devoted his gifted talents and prized technical knowledge to IU as teacher, administrator, composer and arranger, loyal alumnus, and dear friend. He generously shared with students, colleagues, administrators, and the entire IU and Bloomington communities his time and energy, professional expertise, invaluable experience, wise counsel, and foresight — gifts of inestimable value. But he also lent the IU family an additional priceless gift: his noble spirit, which spoke of loyalty, dignity, unselfishness, generosity, tolerance, and an unbounded zest for and appreciation of all that is good in life.

The recipient of the Newell Long Award represents attainment of those admirable qualities of excellence and is honored by his/her colleagues, just as the Marching Hundred is honored a hundredfold to count Professor Long in its musical and personal heritage. He wrote a fine manuscript. We are privileged to follow his cadence.

Please make a recommendation for the 2005 Newell Hillis Long Award recipient on your registration form on page 6. Thank you.

Reconnect with friends at Homecoming 2005

I will never forget my first rehearsal with the entire Marching Hundred in August 1988. The environment was electric with the first night of returning veterans and nearly 300 sweaty instrumentalists packed into Marching Hundred Hall. The downbeat came from Mr. Pratt and a unison B-flat concert scale made my body tingle. For the next few hours, I was captivated by the power and timbre of the Marching Hundred as we rehearsed music for an upcoming "Olympic Show." This evening is just one of the many special memories that I have of my most cherished college activity.

Although the Marching Hundred is dedicated to musical and marching excellence, my memories are usually reserved for all of the special people I met. I developed some wonderful friendships during my years in the Hundred, and I continue to meet great people each year at Homecoming. We all share one common bond. We are a part of the history and tradition of excellence of one of the finest collegiate marching bands in the world!

Homecoming activities begin on Friday with our participation in the annual Homecoming Parade. Following the parade, please join us at the Senior Recognition Party in Marching Hundred Hall. The Marching Hundred Hall location is sure to add nostalgia as one remembers the sights, sounds, and smells of a typical rehearsal. One goal for the Senior Recognition Party is to begin developing good rapport between the current alumni and those seniors who will soon be graduating. We want each of the seniors to consider joining our ranks in the Alumni Band next year. Come join us for pizza, beverages, videos of past Marching Hundred performances, and a few surprises. Both Friday activities are always casual and fun, and they provide many opportunities for fellowship.

Join us on Saturday for a meeting/rehearsal in Assembly Hall and all of the game-day festivities. We will perform two musical selections during pregame and combine with the Hundred for "Sing, Sing, Sing" at halftime. The marching requirements are minimal and the musical performance is always inspired. We are blessed with a very loyal group of alumni who return to Bloomington each year, but, we need your help to increase participation in this year's Alumni Band! We all have busy lives with many responsibilities, and we can easily find an excuse for not attending. So, to help make this year's Alumni Band the biggest in recent years, contact one additional friend who hasn't attended recently and plan to participate together.

Please visit the Alumni Band Web page at <http://php.indiana.edu/~alumband/home.html> to view a list of names of those who participated last year and to see who has registered so far this year. We list maiden names, years in the Hundred, and instrument to help aid your memory. Bad weather never stopped anyone from being in the Marching Hundred, so don't let it stop you from attending Homecoming! This season brings us another new beginning for IU football, and "Hoepfner springs eternal." I am hoping to see you at Homecoming in October. Please join us to reconnect with your past and IU's tradition of excellence.

Alumni Band Council

Alumni Band Web site keeps alumni connected all year

Do you know that you can have your own page for free on the Alumni Band Web site? The address is <http://php.indiana.edu/~alumband>. Let other Hundred alumni know what you're up to, where you are living, and what your e-mail address is so they can get in touch with you! Many alumni are sending us a picture, too. Everyone is listed by name (your current name and the name you had back then) and your year of graduation. Try it out, and then submit your own information to the Web site.

Has your e-mail address changed? Do you have a new job? Another degree? Have you moved to a new place? The Alumni Band Web site form allows you to easily update your "vital statistics" and let us know what's up in your life.

The Web site also has links to the ("Junior") Marching Hundred home page, the IU Band Department, the Indiana University Alumni Association, and the Indiana University home page. And you are always invited to tell us stories about your experiences in the Hundred in our "Hundred Heritage" section. Check us out!

The Alumni Band Council is continually looking for ways to make Homecoming weekend more fun and more convenient for you to attend. Please contact any of us with your suggestions. What would it take for you to come to Homecoming this year?

RedSteppers: Start stretching!

It's time to start stretching! Last year we had our largest group in many years perform another outstanding routine choreographed by Janice. She always has a few "repeats" in the routine to make it easier to remember. Come to the Friday night event and start learning the routine before our usual Saturday rehearsal.

Homecoming is nothing but fun. What more could you want on a fall day than being in Bloomington, watching a football game, and soaking up the fantastic sounds of the Alumni Band?

Wear your crimson pants and white top. See you in October!

Representative

Alumni Flags: Stay connected

Greetings, fellow spinners! I would like to thank all of you for a great turnout last October. For once, it didn't rain and we won!

The flag corps played a huge role in my transition to IU as a freshman. I came from Virginia not knowing anyone at the university. The IU Flag Corps gave me an instant circle of friends and support in being a very small fish in a very big pond. My only ties to IU continue to be through Marching Hundred and Tau Beta Sigma.

I hope to see many of you at Homecoming so that we represent the history of the flag corps at Indiana University. If you plan to attend this year, please e-mail me at MaryAnn.East@fcps.edu so I can make arrangements for flags, poles, etc.

— Mary Ann East
Alumni Flag Coordinator

In memoriam

With all the excitement and anticipation in preparing for our Alumni Band activities at Homecoming, it is important that we remember those Marching Hundred alumni who have recently died. Although they are no longer with us on the field, remember that their hard work and dedication helped create the traditions that we celebrate today. Their legacies will last as long as there are football Saturdays, drills to be learned, music to be rehearsed, and Marching Hundred friendships to be cultivated. We remember

- Leon H. Bell, '45, Brazil, Ind., who died March 14, 2004;
- Jon W. Boggs, BME'62, Woodruff, S.C., trumpet, who died Aug. 27, 2004;
- Gregory E. Butcher, BSPE'76, MSEd'90, Bloomington, Ind., who died March 15, 2005;
- Alvah M. Dieterich, BS'40, Munster, Ind., who died June 17, 2004;
- Ralph E. Dixon, '46, San Marcos, Calif., who died March 5, 2004;
- Richard A. Goble, BS'43, Greenfield, Ind., who died Nov. 19, 2004;
- John T. Goodman, BA'48, Croton on Hudson, N.Y., who died July 31, 2002;

- Thomas J. Heavyside, BS'69, Indianapolis, who died March 9, 2005;
- Harry A. Himebaugh, BM'32, MM'49, Roslyn Li, N.Y., who died March 19, 1999;
- Louis H. Howe, BS'43, La Mirada, Calif., who died June 14, 2005;
- Robert C. Howes, BME'55, Arizona City, Ariz., who died Oct. 21, 2004;
