

Indiana University
at
South Bend

Baccalaureate
Class of 1971

Sunday, June Sixth
Nineteen Hundred and Seventy-One

INDIANA UNIVERSITY AT SOUTH BEND

BACCALAUREATE PROGRAM

June Sixth, Nineteen Hundred Seventy-One

Seven O'Clock

AUDITORIUM

Chancellor Lester M. Wolfson, Presiding

- Prelude The University Orchestra
Menuetto from Symphony No. 41, Michael J. Esselstrom
K. V. 551 W. A. Mozart conductor
- Invocation The Reverend Daniel E. Peil
- Interlude The Renaissance Singers
Robert W. Demaree, Jr.
conductor
- Serenade to Music Ralph Vaughn Williams
- Litany Chancellor Wolfson
(Words are printed on the opposite page)
- Address Mr. John J. Loughlin
"Radicals Don't Make Changes - Thinkers Do"
- Benediction Father Peil
- Postlude The University Orchestra
Allegro Vivace from Symphony No. 41,
K. V. 551 W. A. Mozart

(Please do not applaud or use flash bulbs)

LITANY

(The audience will respond with the underlined sections)

Almighty God, source of wisdom and fountain of knowledge, who hath placed in the heart of man the desire to know,

We praise Thee that this time has come.

For the pleasant associations had while here, and the friendships of these days; for the discipline of body and mind received from doing well pleasant and unpleasant assignments, and for minds made sensitive to human needs and truth,

We thank Thee, O God!

For the families and friends, whose encouragement, faith and sacrifice have made possible this achievement,

We are humbly grateful, O God.

For all teachers who have faithfully taught, who have made facts to be interesting and truth to be alive, for others who are in places of responsibility in this University and in this Community whose habitual vision of greatness and whose unwavering dedication to learning have made possible the establishment and growth of this institution,

We offer our sincere thanks to Thee.

That we all, and not least this graduating class, may have the wisdom that begins with a knowledge of our own ignorance; the knowledge of self that makes the examined life livable, and the understanding that overcomes the self-centeredness and isolation which separate man from his Creator and his fellow creatures,

We beseech Thee, O Lord.

Through the thoughts of our minds, through the words of our lips, through the works of our hands, through the consecration of our lives,

To God be all glory, all honor, all dominion and all majesty.