New IUCAT Upgrade Preview Site Available – Please Review

We've been working for several months on a system upgrade to the new IUCAT, our shared statewide online library catalog. Beginning Wednesday, July 30th, a preview site of the upgraded new IUCAT is available for staff review. It can be accessed here.

We are asking all staff to review this preview site both to become familiar with the changes in the interface and to help us in testing its functionality. Should you find problems or errors, please report them using the preview site feedback form.

- This updated version is scheduled to be released later in the fall semester. Be advised - we are still working to finish up a few items, so at the present time:
- The search box is truncated due to some styling problems.
- 'Bookmarks' (selected items) generates an error for users who have not logged in. If you are logged in, Bookmarks works properly.
- For users who have not logged in, an error is generated when trying to save a search.
- Search History occasionally shows blank entries.

We are maintaining a full list of Work In Progress/Known Issues for this new release of the new IUCAT while it continues in its development phase, available on the new IUCAT blog.

Read more about the coming changes to IUCAT here.

Please feel free to contact Rachael Cohen (rachcohe@indiana.edu) or myself (crgreene@indiana.edu) with any questions you might have.

Call for Proposals - Library Hacks: New Roles, New Tech, New Spaces

The Indiana Online Users Group (IOLUG) Program Committee invites you to submit a proposal to present at the Fall 2014 IOLUG program: "Library Hacks: New Roles, New Tech, New Spaces" on Thursday, October 30, 2014, at Indiana Wesleyan in Indianapolis, IN. The deadline for proposals is Friday, September 5, 2014 Get some inspiration from previous years' sessions on the IOLUG Website.

Whether it be changes to our roles as librarians, changes in the technology we use to perform our jobs and that we teach our patrons how to use, or changes to our very library environments, the Library is a constantly changing and evolving entity. Our Fall Program theme is "Library Hacks: New Roles, New Tech, New Spaces," and the IOLUG Program Committee is interested in hearing about ways that you "hack" the way you perform your role, how you design your spaces, or how you find and utilize emerging technologies. What new ideas are you implementing to make you or your library more relevant and engaging to those you serve?

The committee is particularly interested in proposals that address:

- Grassroots approaches to doing things differently
- New Library Spaces - changing/adapting/modifying your physical or digital systems
- MOOCs
- Innovation and innovative ideas
- Digital Literacy
- Hacking Librarianship - new roles/philosophies/opportunities
- Emerging Technologies - how we use and find them to educate ourselves and/or our patrons
- Library Collaborations - with community organizations, other departments on

The late Victorian period was the time in which the modern world as we know it took shape. In Britain, there was an explosion of interest in the occult, the paranormal, and the esoteric – interests that developed directly into what is now often described as "New Age" philosophy. Ancient Egypt was one area in which modern scholarship and esotericism overlapped, and even converged. It is not often remembered today that in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, a number of mainstream scholars of antiquity were interested in esoteric or occult subjects.

The presentation will be held in Bloomington at the Lilly Library Slocum Room on August 18. See more about the event here.
