teaching and outreach programs since she assumed her Education and Outreach duties in 2014. Rebecca is a PhD candidate in English literature at IU, and she has also curated a number of exhibitions at the Lilly Library, including "Spiritualists, Sorcerers, and Stage Magicians," which she co-curated with Anne Delgado.

I'm happy to announce that our new Education and Outreach Librarian will be Maureen Maryanski, whose first day in the position will be March 13. Maureen has been serving as Reference Librarian for Printed Collections at the New-York Historical Society since 2012, where her duties included reference, instruction, and publicizing the N-YHS's collections and activities through the Society's blog, From the Stacks. Maureen holds Master's degrees in History and Library Science from Indiana University, where she also completed an undergraduate minor in contemporary dance, which is one of her research interests.

I am also pleased to announce that Isabel Planton will be the new Public Services Librarian at the Lilly Library. Isabel holds a Master of Library Science degree from Indiana University, and she has held positions in Lilly Library's Public Services since 2011. Isabel has a great deal of experience in reference and teaching, and she has also been instrumental in the implementation of the Lilly Library Request System (Aeon), which was adopted at the Library in 2016. Among Isabel's research interests are the use of special collections materials in instruction, and the history of maps and atlases.
