Director's Note

I am very proud of this year's dance concert. Many of the IU South Bend Dance Company members who have been enrolled in the choreography class have created some exciting dance pieces that will be performed tonight. Also, associate faculty members Karen Pajor, and Colin Raybin have created pieces for the IU South Bend Dance Company and associate faculty Ruby Jazayre and Kelly Morgan have choreographed for some of our dance students.

This year's theme in the Department of Theatre and Dance is diversity and cooperation. Therefore, I decided to use the Native American concept of "All Our Relation." This perspective considers all creation as equal. The elements of fire, earth, water, and air are symbols of the lifecycle and certain attributes that make up the medicine wheel. The medicine wheel represents the right way of living. In keeping with the idea of cooperation, I asked the dancers to collaborate with me on the choreography because I wanted them to experience the process that what we put on stage was truthful to who we are. Assistant Professor of Theatre Justin Amellio has written the script and directed theatre students in the narration.

I hope you enjoy this Celebration of Dance.

Carolynn Hine-Johnson, Ed. D.
Assistant Professor of Dance
