Happenings at Wylie House

Wylie House museum reopens this week with its annual quilt show and heirloom seed sale. This year's exhibit highlights quilts made by four women affectionately known as the Wylie House Quilters. In addition to the 9 quilts they've made for the museum, they have also been busily designing, piecing and quilting numerous others for their families. These women and their work are very special to us; we are pleased to share their beautiful work with the public.

Dates/Times: February 28 - March 1, 10:00a-4:00p & March 4-29, 10:00a-2:00p

Location: Wylie House Museum: corner of E. 2nd and Lincoln Streets

This year's annual heirloom seed sale features over 80 historic varieties of flower, vegetable, and herb seeds, all grown without the use of chemicals in the Wylie House Museum garden and germination tested to insure viability.

Date/Time: Saturday, March 1, 10:00a - 4:00p

Location: Wylie House Annex, 317 E. 2nd Street

Finally, we are happy to announce a second exhibit during the month of March that commemorates Women's History month. The Monroe County Female Seminary: An historical retrospective. Over 100 academies were incorporated in Ohio and Illinois by the 1840s, many of them private or semi-private. Indiana and Iowa, however, established 'County Seminaries' built on land granted by the state. Utilizing materials from the IU Archives, Wylie House, and the Monroe County History Center, this exhibit tells the story of one early educational opportunity for women in Bloomington.

Dates: March 4 - 31

Location: IUB School of Education, Matrix Gallery (third floor)
