DPLA Indiana Meeting Announcement

On Friday, March 6, 2015 the Indiana State Library will be hosting a planning meeting for Digital Public Library of America's (DPLA) Indiana Statewide Service Hub.

This meeting is open to all libraries, historical societies, museums and archives who are interested in participating in DPLA. To learn more about DPLA, click here to go the website.

The DPLA is a national discovery tool for public domain and licensed digital content held by the nation's archives, libraries, museums, and other cultural heritage institutions. It is aimed at providing large scale public access to these local depositories. Indiana Memory has been accepted as a service hub for DPLA, providing a way for content from the local organizations to be included in the national database.

The purpose of this meeting is to update the State on our progress, including a report on our initial data upload, and to discuss potential governance models for Indiana's DPLA statewide service hub. This will include a conversation on the process the State Library has created for getting the existing records ready for harvesting as well as a timeline for adding new collections. The attendees will also discuss a schedule for future meetings and future steps for the group.

The DPLA Indiana meeting will take place on Friday, March 6, 2015 1:00pm - 3:00pm in the History Reference Room of the Indiana State Library.

There is no cost for attending this meeting however we ask that participants pre-register at DPLAIndiana.
