Ben Brabson, a Physics Professor at Indiana University, will speak about the "WonderLab"

The Wonder Lab is a private organization whose mission is to provide opportunities where people of all ages, especially children, can experience the wonder and excitement of science through hands-on exhibits and programs that stimulate curiosity, encourage exploration, facilitate discovery and foster learning.

Founded in 1995, The WonderLab was designed to create an interest in science, health and technology. It started out as a small, interim museum on the north side of the courthouse square and grew into a permanent museum. It was officially opened in January 2002 on Bloomington's near west side. Thanks to the generous donations by the public and other organizations, the WonderLab now offers preschool programs and a toddler exhibit area known as the George and Evelyn Brabson Discovery Garden providing science adventures for all ages!

George Brabson was an attorney from Findlay, Ohio. His wife, Evelyn, was educated as a botanist. They established the foundation in 1989 to help support educational organizations and guided its benevolence until their deaths in 1999. Since then, the foundation has been directed by their children and grandchildren, including their son, Ben Brabson, a physics professor at Indiana University.

The Eleanor Long luncheon will be held at 11:45 a.m. in the Faculty Room. Reservations are required. Deadline for reservations is Tuesday, January 11, 12 noon.
