In response to critiques of Information Literacy Standards, ACRL recently approved a new Framework for Information Literacy that centers on higher order thinking and conceptual understandings. The Framework presents both opportunities and challenges to librarians in relation to teaching and learning. In this webinar, participants will be introduced to the Framework and to key concepts that inform it. Attendees will also consider potential applications of the Framework to library instruction and to librarianship more broadly.

Andrea Baer is the Undergraduate Education Librarian at Indiana University-Bloomington, where she works with course instructors and fellow librarians to integrate information literacy into teaching and learning. Andrea also teaches professional development courses on information literacy at Library Juice Academy.

Angela White Joins IUPUI University Library's Special Collections Team

Angela White has stepped into the Philanthropy Archivist role at the IUPUI University Library. Angela earned a Ph.D. In East European history at IU Bloomington before returning to school for an MLS at Simmons College. Since receiving her degree in 2011, she has worked as a librarian and archivist in public libraries and academic institutions, most recently as the Archives and Public Services Librarian at Hanover College. In her new position as Philanthropic Studies Archivist, she looks forward to exploring new collecting areas for the Philanthropic Studies Archives, increasing digitization efforts, and managing born digital collections effectively.

Sara Lowe Appointed Educational Development Librarian at IUPUI University Library

Effective March 1, Sara Lowe joined the Library as Educational Development Librarian. Working with liaison librarians, Sara will lead education and assessment efforts. She comes to the Library from the Claremont Colleges Library in Claremont, CA where she was Assessment Librarian. Her research interests revolve around the impact of library educational services on student achievement, persistence, and success after graduation. Sara is looking forward to developing robust assessment measures, in conjunction with liaison librarians, as well as elevating and strengthening already outstanding liaison education programs.
