Tina Baich Accepts New Position

Tina Baich has been appointed IUPUI University Library Associate Dean for Collections. Her portfolio as Associate Dean includes Acquisitions, Bibliographic & Metadata Services, Resource Sharing & Delivery Services, and Special Collections & Archives. Tina joined University Library in 2006 as the Visiting Interlibrary Loan Librarian and led the library's resource sharing efforts for 12 years. She also served as head of Bibliographic & Metadata Services for the last five years. In addition to her appointment as Associate Dean for Collections, Tina currently holds a part-time appointment with the IUPUI Office of Academic Affairs as Director of Faculty Mentoring. She is a recipient of the ALA's Virginia Boucher-OCLC Distinguished Interlibrary Loan Librarian and IU's W. George Pinnell Award for Outstanding Service. Tina's writing has focused on the intersections of open access and interlibrary loan, and she has presented on this topic at state, regional, national and international conferences. Tina is a graduate of the Indiana University Schools of Library & Information Science and Liberal Arts with master degrees in Library Science and Public History.

Malia Jackson Accepts Position

Malia Jackson has accepted the Public Services & Outreach Manager position at the Education Library and will officially join us on August 10th. In this position, Malia will support and strengthen research, teaching/learning, and making within the School and also help us serve a larger teaching community at IU and beyond.

Malia has worked at Indiana University for over five years as an innovative academic advisor for the College of Arts & Sciences and the Hutton Honors College. In addition, she has served as a volunteer program designer for the Wylie house and a mentor at the Monroe County Public Library.

Before relocating to Bloomington, Malia was the Program Director at the Harlem Center for Education; an Exhibition Manager at the Museum of Mathematics; and a Learning Designer for a video game company in California.

Malia holds a MFA in Creative Writing from San Francisco State University, a MA in Secondary Mathematics Education from City College of New York, and an AB in Astronomy from Cornell University.

Please join me in welcoming Malia to her full-time position in the IU Libraries' Education Library!
