Metadata standards at Indiana University are well-established for many of our digital library collections. These standards have been expressed, for the most part, using XML - it's easy to store, easy to read, easy to update, and easy to share. Newer forms of digital library technology, however, are expanding/enhancing the way that data is stored with and about digital objects, using the Resource Description Framework (RDF) to construct relationships, descriptions, and digital objects that are more semantically connected to the web. This new way of standardizing metadata has presented many challenges: introducing a new model midway through projects, migrating content from older models to RDF models, and figuring out in general what it means to use an RDF model for digital library collections.

This talk will discuss what has happened in the IU digital libraries with RDF to-date and the challenges and opportunities from this work.

You can also follow and contribute to the presentation and discussion on twitter: #dlbb.

The Digital Library Brown Bag series is held Wednesdays in the Herman B Wells Library from 12:00-1:00pm EST. The complete schedule, including abstracts, is available at: Digital Library Brown Bag Series

Employees of the IU Libraries system who hold an MLS degree or have equivalent experience are invited to submit applications for the Herbert S. and Virginia White Professional Development Award. All IU Libraries staff on all campuses in clerical, technical, and PA positions, and all individuals with librarian appointments are eligible to apply for this award. The White Award has been established to support the career growth of individuals who have chosen librarianship as a profession. Further information about the award, the process, eligibility, criteria, and the application form are available on the web at: White-Award-Documents.

The deadline for applications is February 20, 2015. Please send your information to Julie Ranz Wilson, Advancement Associate at Wells 234, Bloomington. Click here to send an email jranz@indiana.edu.

The IU Libraries Scholarship and Award Committee will make the award decision and complete notification letters at the beginning of April. Dean Walters will publicly announce the award recipient's name at Librarians' Day, scheduled for June.

Free Webinar: The Convergence of the Writing and Research Process

The ALI Information Literacy Committee will be hosting a webinar Thursday, March 5, 2:00pm - 3:00pm on the convergence of the writing and research process. Professor Susan Ariew, Academic Services Librarian for Education at the University of South Florida, will be sharing her experience and insights concerning this topic via a webinar format. Professor Ariew will:

- Identify the parallels between the writing and research process
- Discuss teaching strategies that marry the research process with the writing process

If you do plan on attending, please fill out the following RSVP Form.

To learn more about Professor Ariew's credentials, visit: Selected Works of Susan A. Ariew.

We hope you can take a break from your busy schedules to learn about the relationship and opportunities that exist in teaching the writing and research process as one. And, please share this with your Writing Center and other writing composition colleagues.

DPLA Indiana Meeting Announcement

On Friday, March 6, 2015 the Indiana State Library will be hosting a planning meeting for Digital Public Library of America's (DPLA) Indiana Statewide Service Hub.

This meeting is open to all libraries, historical societies, museums and archives who are interested in participating in DPLA. To learn more about DPLA, click here to go the website.

The DPLA is a national discovery tool for public domain and licensed digital content held by the nation's archives, libraries, museums, and other cultural heritage institutions. It is aimed at providing large scale public access to these local depositories. Indiana Memory has been accepted as a service hub for DPLA, providing a way for content from the local organizations to be included in the national database.

The purpose of this meeting is to update the State on our progress, including a report on our initial data upload, and to discuss potential governance models for Indiana's DPLA statewide service hub. This will include a conversation on the process the State Library has created for getting the existing

Staff News

Chanitra Bishop Resigns

Chanitra Bishop will be leaving the Indiana University Libraries today (February 13), giving the Libraries and Reference Services a truly unlucky Friday. We have been lucky to work with Chanitra for the past several years, and she will be missed by her Reference colleagues. Chanitra is leaving us to take on the big city, relocating to the New York City area to be with her sister and family
