2. Parking: The Business Office announces that studies of parking-lot density and composition indicate that additional parking-identification decals may be sold. Additional stock has been ordered and sales will begin next Monday. The sale will continue for a week or until the new stock is exhausted. Notice will be given before enforcement of parking regulations begins.

3. Attitudes: Two copies of a "Summary Report of an Attitudinal Study Regarding Indiana University" are available in the IUSB Library. The study was conducted early this year by a team of four staff members of Group Attitudes Co., a New York-based research organization. The objective of the study was to help I.U. plan more effectively for the future by determining attitudes and opinons about the University's present role in the state's education program.

4. Chemistry Seminar: This semester's IUSB Chemistry Seminar will focus on "Energy and Chemistry." Seminar sessions will be held from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Wednesdays in NSW050. Speakers from industry, government research laboratories, and the I.U. faculty have been invited to participate.

   Today's seminar speaker will be Joseph H. Ross, IUSB Chemistry Department; he will discuss "Capturing Solar Energy with Electronic Processes and the Help of a Little Green Stuff (the Light Processes in Photochemistry)."

   Next Wednesday, September 18, Dr. Felix Schreiner, of the Argonne National Library, will discuss "Chemistry and Energy," touching on some new energy sources being studied at Argonne.

   The seminars are open to all interested persons.

5. Future of Family: A panel discussion on "The Future of the Family in a Contraceptive Society" will be held at 7 p.m. Monday in the Northside West lecture hall.

   Panelists will be Dr. Donald J. Bogue, director of the Community and Family Study Center at the University of Chicago; Dr. William T. Liu, director of the Center for the Study of Man and professor in the Department of Sociology and Anthropology at the University of Notre Dame; and Dr. Thomas Poffenberger, professor in the Department of Population Planning, School of Public Health, University of Michigan.

   The program is the last in a series that began last fall under the sponsorship of the IUSB Division of Arts and Sciences, with funding provided by a grant from the Indiana Committee for the Humanities in cooperation with the National Endowment for the Humanities.

   Dr. Jonelle M. Farrow, Psychology, and Dr. John F. Santos, of Notre Dame, are co-directors.

6. Delinquency Series: A series of programs titled "Juvenile Justice: Children in Trouble in Indiana" will be presented at IUSB and on Channel 34, WNIT-TV, during the last half of this month. A panel of humanists and professionals in the juvenile corrections field will present the programs, two of which will be offered on the IUSB campus and the other two on Channel 34.

Each program will involve a discussion based on the film "Children in Trouble: Alternatives to a National Scandal." Panelists will be Mary Carol Prebys, social worker at the St. Joseph County Welfare Department; James R. Haines, Psychology; Harold Zisla, Fine Arts, and Michael Oyer, a graduate student at Notre Dame.

The two IUSB programs will be held from 4 to 5 p.m. September 17 and 24 in room 104, Northside. The Channel 34 programs will be aired from 8 to 9 p.m. September 25 and October 2.

7. Fulbright News: Thomas L. Thorson, Political Science, is one of 806 Fulbright-Hays award winners for 1974-75, according to information received by James A. Yutzy, IUSB faculty Fulbright adviser. The award is in American Studies and involves starting a chair in American Civilization at the University of Trondheim, Norway.

   Dr. Yutzy also announced the availablilty of grants to teach abroad or to attend a summer seminar abroad under the Fulbright-Hays Act for the 1975-76 academic year. Elementary and secondary teachers, college instructors, and assistant professors are eligible to participate in the program. U.S. citizenship, a bachelor's degree, and at least three years of full-time teaching are required for teaching positions. A minimum of two years teaching experience is required for summer seminars.

   Seminars for teachers of art, German, the classics, Italian, European, and world/Asian history will be held in 1975.

   Application should be made before November 1. An information bulletin and application forms can be obtained from Teacher Exchange Section, Division of International Education, U.S. Office of Education, Washington, D. C. 20202.

8. Grant: The IUSB Chemistry Department has received a grant of $5,000 from the Indiana State Criminal Justice Agency for use in the Drug Identification Project.

9. Special Services: An HEW grant of $70,000 has been made to underwrite the Special Services program at IUSB for 1974-75. The program is in its fourth year here.

10. Faculty Activities: An article by Thomas Joseph, Biology, titled "Hymenolepsis diminuta in a Gray Squirrel from Indiana" appeared in the Journal of Wildlife Diseases, Vol. 10, pp. 164-165. Research leading to the paper was supported by grants from the Society of Sigma Xi, the Indiana Academy of Science, and the Office of Research and Advanced Studies of Indiana University.

"Coumarins as Fluorescent Indicators of Metal Ions," an article by Geraldine M. Huitink, Chemistry, was published in the 1973 Proceedings of the Indiana Academy of Sciences. Another article, "Isocein--A New Fluorescent Reagent for Calcium," was published in the June, 1974, issue of Analytica Chimica Acta.

Keith D. Knauss, Labor Studies, taught at the University of Wisconsin School for Workers AFL-CIO summer school in July. In August, he attended the American Federation of Teachers annual convention in Toronto, serving as a delegate from the IUSB chapter of the AFT. At the convention, he served on the committee on Techniques of Organization and Collective Bargaining and also attended a workshop on unionism in colleges and universities.

Fred J. Naffziger, Business Administration, presented a paper titled "Labor Arbitration: Breaking New Ground but Raising Questions" at the annual meeting of the American Business Law Association in Boston.

Judith A. Redwine, Education, served as a consultant during a recent Penn-Harris-Madison School Corp. Administrators' Workshop on Teacher Evaluation.

Paul H. Scherer, History, disucssed the Cyprus situation and his recent travels to Greece and Turkey on a radio program aired last Sunday on WJVA-AM and WRBR-FM Radio.

Sheldon Shapiro, History, has had an article, "Morality in Religious Reformations," accepted for publication in Comparative Studies in Society and History.

John W. Toth, Communication Arts, directed a Presbyterian Players production of the Rogers and Hart musical The Boys from Syracuse in July and August. He also appeared in a South Bend Civic Theatre production of The Ginger Bread Lady last May, and made a guest appearance in Let Sleeping Wives Lie, an English farce, at Sister Lakes Playhouse in Michigan.
