Librarian at IUPUI University Library.

Mahasin Martinson has worked in libraries for over 16 years. She worked for the Indianapolis Public Library from 2005 until April of 2019. In her time with IndyPL she served in many roles. Her final position was an Adult Services Librarian tasked with managing a $200,000 Grow with Google Grant to circulate Chromebooks and Mobile HotSpots to Indianapolis residents. In addition, Mahasin has been an adjunct lecturer for IUPUI's School of Informatics and Computing, teaching in the program since fall of 2017. She has served on the board of directors for the Indiana Writer's Center since 2016. Her research passions are public libraries as a safe space, Millennial engagement in public libraries, and the overlap between public librarianship and social work.

In her spare time she enjoys reading, hanging out with friends and her cat, Koopa. She also loves anything space related.

Ron Peterson Leaves Position

It is with bittersweetness I announce that Ron Peterson has accepted the position of Management and Program Analyst at the Library of Congress. His last day at IU will be Friday, August 2.

Ron has served as Programmer/Analyst, Assessment in IUB Library Technologies since March 2017. During that time, he has developed robust reporting for and detailed visualizations of wide-ranging library data. His efforts have enabled us to quantitatively represent the impressive work we do and to make thoughtful, data-driven decisions. Until recently, in addition to his assessment work he also supported the library website content management system.

Though we are sad to see Ron go, please join with me in thanking him for his invaluable service and in wishing him the very best success in this new opportunity!
