

ONE HUNDRED EIGHTIETH ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT

Dear Friends:

Welcome to Indiana University's 2009 Commencement. Together, on this great day of celebration, we pause to honor the tremendous accomplishments of our graduates. This is their shining moment.

Coming from across the state of Indiana, throughout the nation, and around the world, they have become a part of the fabric of excellence woven at Indiana University over the course of nearly two centuries. In subjects ranging from accounting to zoology, they have drawn on their intelligence, talents, and tenacity to achieve mastery and prepare for the challenges of tomorrow. We honor their achievements today and recognize the challenges they have already faced, and overcome, as they have pursued their dreams.

This day has been years in the making: years of study and years of support. Our graduates have reached this wonderful day propelled by the love, encouragement, and faith of their families and friends. The strength of that support helps each of us achieve our highest aspirations and deserves our deepest gratitude. Today is as much a day to share that gratitude as to celebrate.

Indiana University's class of 2009 will always be a part of IU's rich and living history. Having dedicated themselves to the pursuit of academic excellence, driven by curiosity and intellectual passion, our graduates are now poised on the cusp of ever greater accomplishments. We will remember and celebrate them always, wishing them the greatest success in the future.

Most sincerely,

Michael A. McRobbie
President

Glimpses of Commencements Past

"The Commencement of 1833 was held in the new chapel, the orchestra composed of two flutes, & one of them cracked—imagine the discord. Dr. Wylie whispers to a professor: 'What makes more noise than a pig in a gate?' Reply: 'I give it up.' The Dr. turning his thumb towards the orchestra, says, 'Two of them.'"

—E. N. Elliott, faculty member, in a letter to Theophilus Wylie, 1833

"The Commencement exercises of 1855 were held in the locust grove in front of the Preparatory building, and the addresses of the graduating class, of which I was a member, were pronounced in the open, a good reminder of the academic groves of ancient Athens."

—John W. Foster, Valedictorian, 1855, writing in "Memories of I.U., 1851–55"

"We need the institutions that teach the broad cultural development which this nation needs more than it needs anything else—if it is to be worthwhile that this experiment in free government should have been tried on this continent."

—President Theodore Roosevelt,
IU Commencement address, 1918

"Society, through government, through philanthropy, and through the sacrifices of individual families, has supported higher education largely because we as a nation believe that college-trained men and women offer us our best hope of leadership equal to our needs."

—University Chancellor Herman B Wells,
IU Commencement address, 1988

"In short, banish mediocrity, seek excellence, embrace humanity."

—Jane Pauley, broadcaster and reporter,
IU Commencement address, 1990

"The strength of this country depends not on the size of its economy or the might of its armies, but on the character and enlightenment of its people."

—Congressman Lee H. Hamilton,
IU Commencement address, 1991

"If someone were to ask me casually about life, I would simply say, 'Play it like you feel it, baby, and live it up, kid. You'll be all right.'"

—John Mellencamp, rock musician,
IU Commencement address, 2000

"Let us accept the notion of a frontier, in that American sense, not as a border or a limit, but something unknowable, yet reachable, something with risks, but great rewards if we clear ground and build correctly. Let us go for frontiers, not shy away from them."

—University Chancellor Kenneth R. R. Gros
Louis, IU Commencement address, 2001

"Take time in the aftermath of a game or a business day to know, commiserate and enjoy your contemporaries, your team. They are partners in the struggle. They are good friends. If they really care, they'll dare you to be good, even push you to be great."

—Dick Enberg, sports broadcaster, IU

COMMENCEMENT CEREMONIES

The audience is requested to remain until the conclusion of the ceremonies.

The exercises of the one hundred eightieth annual Commencement are enacted today at Indiana University Bloomington. The counterpart of the pageantry enacted each year on campuses all over the world, it is the solemn climax and recognition of the graduates' years of study and preparation for responsibility.

To help spectators understand the significance of the ceremonies, the following description is furnished.

PROCESSION

Leading the procession immediately behind the flag bearers is the grand marshal, bearing the ceremonial Mace, emblematic of the authority of the state and of the university. The grand marshal is attired in a white brocade gown with a gold metallic tassel. A gold satin sash with gold tassels hangs from the shoulder. Immediately following the grand marshal are the president and members of the trustees of the university. The president, as his badge of office, wears a jewel, emblematic of the history of the state and of the university. Other marshals wear shoulder sashes of various colors and designs.

Led by the marshals, the candidates march behind the identification banners of the respective schools that recommended them for their degrees. They are:

College of Arts and Sciences
Indiana University Kelley School of Business
School of Continuing Studies
School of Education
School of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation
School of Informatics
School of Journalism
Indiana University Michael A. Maurer School of Law
School of Library and Information Science
School of Medicine
Indiana University Jacobs School of Music
School of Nursing
School of Optometry
School of Public and Environmental Affairs
School of Social Work
University Graduate School

As the candidates reach their seats, the members of the faculties of Indiana University march in, wearing the colorful hoods of the colleges and universities from which they were graduates. The climax of the processional brings to the platform the trustees of the university, the deans of the various schools, honorary degree recipients, state officials, and university officers.

The trustees of the university can be identified by their red gowns, which have red velvet panels and red velvet chevrons on the sleeves. The panels and chevrons are outlined in cream, and an Indiana University seal appears on the left panel. The trustees wear black velvet caps with gold metallic tassels.

ACADEMIC ATTIRE

All candidates for degrees and those who hold these degrees, including university officials and faculty and visiting dignitaries, are attired in traditional caps and gowns. The basic color for most caps and gowns is formal black. However, recipients of different degrees wear distinctive tassels on their caps (the flat, square caps are called mortarboards) and hoods of various hues draped down the backs of the gowns.

CAPS

Candidates for degrees wear the regulation cap with the tassel color appropriate to the degree being conferred.

The list of tassel colors follows:

Arts and Sciences—White
Business—Drab
Continuing Studies—Silver Gray
Education—Light Blue
Graduate—Royal Blue
Health, Physical Education, and Recreation—Sage Green
Informatics—Copper
Journalism—Cardinal
Labor Studies—Nile Green
Law—Royal Purple
Library and Information Science—Lemon Yellow
Medicine—Kelly Green
Music—Pink
Nursing—Apricot
Optometry—Aqua
Public and Environmental Affairs—Peacock Blue
Social Work—Citron

GOWNS

The bachelor's and associate's gowns have a closed front and open sleeves. The master's gown has extremely long, closed sleeves, from which the arms extend through a slit at the wrist; the end of the sleeve is square, with an arc cut away just above the bottom. The doctor's gown has velvet panels down the front, and voluminous bell-shaped sleeves on which there are three velvet bars.

HOODS

The bachelor's hood is worn only by those who already hold bachelor's degrees. It is rather short, with a narrow velvet edging of the appropriate color (see list of tassels) and a lining in the color or colors of the institution—crimson at Indiana.

The master's hood is considerably longer, has a wider velvet edging, and exposes more of the lining.

The doctor's hood is easily recognized by the width of the velvet edging, the wide panels at either side, the greater length, and the full exposure of the lining. The colors of the edging most frequently seen are royal blue for philosophy, green for medicine, royal purple for laws, light blue for education, and aqua for optometry; the colors for the honorary doctoral degrees are royal purple for Doctor of Laws, white for Doctor of Humane Letters, golden yellow for Doctor of Science, and pink for Doctor of Music.

HONORS

GRADUATING WITH DISTINCTION

Indiana University holds all of its graduates in high esteem and takes an added measure of pride in those who have excelled academically. Candidates who are graduating with distinction, high distinction, and highest distinction are entitled to wear on their left shoulders the fourragère, cream and crimson cords. In addition, on some campuses, qualified students are entitled to wear gold medallions indicating that they are graduating with honors.

The recorders in each school distribute fourragères to qualified students before Commencement. The requirements for graduating with honors are different for each school.

HONORS CORDS

Graduates who are members of nearly 60 nationally recognized honor societies may wear their societies' honors cords or medallions during Commencement.

The white tab under the cap button on certain law candidates indicates their selection by the Order of the Coif, a scholastic honor society. Law candidates who have tentatively received honors also wear the fourragère.

The gold medallion on a cream and crimson cord indicates the candidates graduating from the Hutton Honors College. Honors College candidates who have tentatively received honors also wear a cord called the fourragère.

The appropriate recognition is recorded on the individual's diploma as a permanent testimonial to achievement.

SYMBOLS

Traditional in all formal ceremonies of Indiana University are the Mace, symbol of authority; the Jewel of the Office, emblematic of the Office of the President; and the Collar of the Jewel of Office. The first is carried in academic procession by the grand marshal, and the last two are worn by the president. In design and ornamentation they represent significant events in the history of the state of Indiana and of the university.

The treasured symbols were presented to the university by its chapters of the Miami Triad in celebrating their centennials. The Jewel of Office was presented by Beta Theta Pi in 1945; the Mace was given by Phi Delta Theta in 1949; and the Collar of the Jewel of Office by Sigma Chi in 1958.

THE HISTORY OF ACADEMIC ATTIRE

Academic costume of today has a history of nearly eight centuries. In medieval Europe, all townspeople—men and women—wore long flowing robes and gowns. The materials and colors varied according to the wealth and rank of the individual and were governed by royal decree. Gradually, there developed distinctive gowns for the various professions, trades, and guilds.

Students in the medieval universities of Paris, Bologna, Oxford, and Cambridge organized themselves into guilds. Their usual garb, a long gown, was necessary for warmth in the unheated buildings. Scholars, generally members of church orders, wore these robes and also hoods to protect their shaved heads. Later, skullcaps were worn on the head, and the hood became a cape that could be pulled over the head in unpleasant weather. As additional universities were founded, distinctive forms of the gown and hood were adapted by their faculties for bachelors (apprentices of arts), masters (teachers), and doctors (teachers who had completed postgraduate studies). The variations appeared mostly in the hood and were regulated by strict rules. Tailors who departed from the authorized design could be punished. When caps and hats came into fashion in the fifteenth century, the hoods became ornamental, draped over the shoulders and down the back.

The academic hat was adapted from the headdress of the ordinary people. It was first worn as a symbol of the master's degree and existed in various forms. Some caps were stiff, some soft, some square, some round with a tuft in the center. The tassel of today is an elaboration of the tuft. The mortarboard style comes to us from Oxford University.

When academic costume came to America in 1754, styles were quite varied. In Europe they still are; however, in our country, usage has been standardized by the Intercollegiate Code of Academic Costume.

Commencement Speaker and Honorary Degree Candidate

Michael Kirby Doctor of Laws

Justice Michael Kirby, who retired from the High Court of Australia earlier this year, is known as the country's "Great Dissenter." He holds the court's record for dissent, in nearly 50 percent of his cases, a figure that he says is due mainly to his insistence on "attention to international law and universal human rights."

Kirby also holds the record as the longest-serving judge in Australia and as the youngest appointed federal judicial officer in the country. But records and titles aside, Kirby is an extraordinary man, passionate about human rights and social justice.

"Justice Kirby's distinguished career, on and off the bench, has been characterized by intellectual rigor, empathic imagination, and personal courage," says Lauren Robel, dean and Val Nolan Professor of Law at IU Bloomington's Michael Maurer School of Law.

Kirby earned his undergraduate and law degrees from Sydney University and practiced as a solicitor and a barrister before entering public life. He served for nine years on the Australian Law Reform Commission and as a justice on the Federal Court of Australia. In 1984 he was appointed as the President of the Court of Appeals of the Supreme Court of New South Wales and in 1996 was appointed as a Justice of the High Court of Australia.

Beyond the bench, Kirby chaired a breakthrough study on privacy law with the Organisation of Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) and played a critical role in drafting the Declaration on Bioethics and Human Rights for the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization (UNESCO). In 1991 UNESCO awarded him the Australian Human Rights Medal, and in 1998 it named him Laureate of the UNESCO Prize for Human Rights Education.

Kirby was also a member of the Inaugural Global Commission on AIDS of the World Health Organization and a member of the UNAIDS Global Reference Panel on HIV/AIDS and Human Rights. He was the United Nations Special Representative in Cambodia; served as Independent Chairman of the Constitutional Conference of Malawi, which assisted in the adoption of a democratic constitution in Malawi; and was a member of the Commission on Freedom of Association that supported the reform of labor laws in South Africa.

The quality and scope of Kirby's work have been honored repeatedly. He was appointed as a Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George in 1983, an honor given to individuals who have performed important duties for the British Commonwealth or other foreign nations. He was also appointed as a Companion of the Order of Australia in 1991.

Many universities besides Indiana University have awarded Justice Kirby honorary degrees for his work. "These honors attest to the universally high regard and respect in which [Kirby] is held as a selfless spokesman for human rights—truly a humanitarian for the times," says George P. Smith, professor of law at the Catholic University of America.

Kirby has spent much of his time in the courts fighting for human rights and equality for all people, particularly minorities. But the battle has been personal as well, as he has often come under attack for his openness about his homosexuality. "He has taken the heavy responsibility of speaking for those suffering disadvantage and discrimination," says David Dixon, dean of the law faculty at the University of New South Wales. "However, his concern for minority rights is not specific: he speaks out bravely for all groups."

Justice Kirby's IU connections run deep. He has been the George P. Smith Distinguished Visiting Professor of Law; a member of the Kinsey Institute for Research in Sex, Gender, and Reproduction's Board of Governors since 2001; and a Distinguished Citizen Fellow and Branigin Lecturer at the Institute for Advanced Study since 2004. He is an ardent supporter of IU, and he says he admires the strong tradition of independent research found on IU's campuses.

"Justice Kirby's life work reflects the spirit and the ethical values that both President Herman B Wells and Dr. Kinsey fought so valiantly to preserve," says Smith, "namely, an understanding that only through 'open minds' and 'open hearts' can the light of truth be sought and attained."

GRADUATION WITH HONORS 2008–2009

Jacobs School of Music

The Jacobs School of Music recognizes outstanding academic achievement by awarding bachelor's degrees with three levels of distinction: Distinction, High Distinction, and Highest Distinction. At each graduation (May, June, August, and December) graduating seniors in each of the three baccalaureate degrees (Bachelor of Music, Bachelor of Music Education, and Bachelor of Science) will be selected for distinction, subject to the following conditions: in each of the three separate degree categories, students whose grade point averages are 4.00 will receive Highest Distinction. In the Bachelor of Music degree, students whose grade point averages are between 3.95 and 3.99 will receive High Distinction, and those students whose grade point averages are between 3.90 and 3.94 will receive Distinction. In the Bachelor of Music Education degree, those students whose grade point averages are between 3.85 and 3.99 will receive High Distinction, and those students whose grade point averages are between 3.75 and 3.84 will receive Distinction. In the Bachelor of Science degree, those students whose grade point averages are between 3.90 and 3.99 will receive High Distinction, and those students whose grade point averages are between 3.85 and 3.89 will receive Distinction.
