Students invited to learn career success tips

KOKOMO, Ind. — Indiana University Kokomo students are invited to learn tips and techniques to help turn their world-class degree into a career, at the annual Dress for Success Fashion Show and Interview Skit.

The professional development program, hosted by the Office of Career Services, includes a runway fashion show, with students modeling interview and career-appropriate clothing, and a “what not to do” interview skit.

Tracy Springer, manager of career services, said the event is a fun way to help students prepare for life after earning a college degree.

“We think this is a valuable event for all students, to learn professionalism and how to impress future employers,” she said. “This is a fun way to prepare students for their first interview, internship and first job.”

The event, at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday, September 19, includes door prizes and refreshments. It will be in Alumni Hall.

Indiana University Kokomo serves north central Indiana.
