Museums and Libraries around the country were recognized for excellence earlier in May, bringing awareness to the importance of libraries and museums to the forefront. Michelle Obama presented the 2014 National Medal for Museum and Library Service to 10 institutions, including Indiana's own Children's Museum in Indianapolis! IU Northwest John W. Anderson Library Awarded LSTA

Grant

The John W. Anderson Library at IU Northwest has been awarded a 2014 LSTA Technology Grant, allowing the library to purchase a ScanPro 1100, an all-in-one touch screen ready microfilm viewer, scanner, and printer.

The ScanPro 1100 portability makes it an ideal addition to our Adaptive Technology Center. Our patrons will be able to view documents within the center and around the library, including our wonderful archive. The addition of the ScanPro 1100 to our collection will benefit genealogists, residents, scholars, and students.

This project is made possible by a grant from the U.S. Institute of Museum and Library Services, administered by the Indiana State Library.

IU Information Literacy Colloquium: Call for Proposals

Reminder: DEADLINE is TODAY, May 16

EVENT: Third Annual Indiana University Libraries Information Literacy Colloquium

DATE: Friday, August 1

PLACE: IU South Bend in South Bend, IN

The Third Annual Indiana University Libraries Information Literacy Colloquium seeks engaging, innovative, and energizing proposals related to the conference theme:

Metaliteracy: Seeking Connections and Challenging Traditions

We seek thought-provoking proposals that examine metaliteracy, which is emerging as a relevant and interesting paradigm that is reshaping the way we think of information literacy and library instruction. As defined by Mackey and Jacobson \(2011\),

"Metaliteracy promotes critical thinking and collaboration in a digital age, providing a comprehensive framework to effectively participate in social media and online communities. It is a unified construct that supports the acquisition, production, and sharing of knowledge in collaborative online communities. Metaliteracy challenges traditional skills-based approaches to information literacy by recognizing related literacy types and incorporating emerging technologies. Standard definitions of information literacy are insufficient for the revolutionary social technologies currently prevalent online"(p. 62).

Moreover, the current ongoing revision of the ACRL standards includes metaliteracy as an "important anchoring element" in the new Framework for Information Literacy for Higher Education.

This year's Colloquium invites you to investigate the implications metaliteracy has for library instruction theory and practice. Questions to consider include, but are not limited to:

- What do instruction librarians need to know about metaliteracy?
- What does metaliteracy look like, and what does it entail?
- How does it influence what we do in the library instruction classroom?
- How does this shape our learning outcomes and pedagogy?
- How do we assess metaliteracy?
- Additional information literacy topics also welcomed.

Clearly, metaliteracy is a stimulating and exciting concept that has much to offer library instruction and we hope that the Colloquium will contribute significant advances to the current conversations on this topic.

The keynote speaker for the Colloquium will be Trudi Jackson, Head of the Information Literacy Department at the University Libraries, University at Albany, State University of New York. Trudi is co-author of Metaliteracy: Reinventing Information Literacy to Empower Learners.

Proposal guidelines:

Proposals for 45-minute presentations or 45-minute roundtable discussions should be no more than 250 words in length and should contain at least two learning outcomes.

Proposals should be submitted via the online conference proposal form.

Proposals should offer innovative and interesting insights that will enhance the learning of the Colloquium community.

Proposal deadline: Friday, May 16. Proposal notifications will occur by Friday, May 30.

The Colloquium website is available here.

Do you have a writing project you want to work on this summer? Do you want to get some feedback on your writing? Join InULA for our Summer of Writing!

At the initial meetings for the accountability group and the writing/critique group we decided to merge the two groups together to make it more convenient for everyone to attend. The meetings will be drop-in so you can come as your schedule allows. We welcome and encourage you to come to each session but it is not required.

The group will meet for 90 minutes. The first 30 minutes will be for accountability, for members to report back on their research progress. Members are also invited to share writing tips during this time. The last hour will be reserved for writing and critiquing. You are not required to stay for the entire session, you could come for the first 30 minutes or for the hour of writing.

NOTE: If you would like to have your work critiqued, please share your writing ahead of time and give the group a minimum of one week notice so that members have time to read the writing piece prior to the meeting.

Two biweekly meeting times have been scheduled for alternating weeks:

Register for the IU Librarians Health Sciences Summit

The second IU Librarians Health Sciences Summit will be held on Tuesday, June 17 at the Ruth Lilly Medical Library in Indianapolis. Registration is free and open to all Indiana University librarians.

The day will proceed much like last year's schedule, starting at 8:30am and ending at 3:00pm. Several one hour, hands-on classes will be provided on various topics of interest to those working in the health sciences. Hands-on literature search training will include utilizing PubMed Medline and searching biomedical, nursing, allied health, public health, and psychology databases and other information resources. New this year will be a session on social work research. Breakfast and lunch will be provided. Last year we had attendees from every IU campus, so networking/sharing time will be an important part of the schedule.

For a brochure, click here (you can also register from this form).

OR

Register directly here.

Please feel free to forward this to any IU librarian, regardless of their liaison role. All are welcome!

Contact Elaine Skopelja at 317-274-358 or eskopelj@iu.edu if you have any questions.

2014 ALI Information Literacy UnConference

EVENT: 2014 ALI Information Literacy UnConference

DATE: Friday, July 25

TIME: 9:15am - 3:30pm

PLACE: Prindle Institute for Ethics, DePauw University Nature Park, Greencastle, IN, 46135

COST: Free, breakfast and lunch also provided.

Please plan to attend the annual UnConference event hosted by the Academic Libraries of Indiana (ALI) Information Literacy Committee, which will focus on applying threshold concepts for information literacy instruction.

As outlined in part 1 and part 2 drafts, the Framework for Information Literacy for Higher Education crafted by the ACRL Task Force (to be introduced at the ALA Conference this June) is expected to be underpinned by threshold concepts theory. This year's ALI UnConference will focus on sharing and developing ideas amongst Indiana academic librarians for applying threshold concepts in information literacy instruction in different teaching situations, such as one-time library instruction, working with international students, reference, etc. Following the unconference model, attendees will identify the topics to be discussed through the day and work together to share examples and discuss options.

Staff News

Andy Uhrich Accepts Film Archivist Position

Effective Wednesday, July 2, Andy Uhrich has accepted the position of Film Archivist at the Indiana University Bloomington Libraries. In May 2010, Andy received an M.A. from New York University's Tisch School of Arts in Moving Image Archiving and Preservation. He has over ten years of film handling experience and is an advanced Ph.D. student in the IUB Department of Communication and Culture, Film and Media Studies. Andy has designed and taught courses in film studies, presented at academic conferences, and is engaged in research on a topic closely related to the IU Libraries Film Archive's collections. Please join me in welcoming Andy to the Libraries!
