Staff News

I am very pleased to announce that Andrew Rhoda has become Curator of Puzzles at the Lilly Library, effective July 22. Andrew has worked at the Lilly Library since 2008, first as Auxiliary Library Facility

The National Digital Stewardship Alliance (NDSA) is a voluntary organization made up of government, academic, and private institutions (including IU Libraries) that all have digital stewardship responsibilities. This week, the NDSA released the inaugural edition of the National Agenda for Digital Stewardship. This document contains information on key issues the organization intends to tackle in the oncoming year. In 2014, NDSA hopes to focus on: Digital Stewardship training and staffing; applied research on Information valuation, curation cost, and effective auditing; experiments in interoperability and portability of storage architectures;

(ALF) Cataloging Specialist, then as Rare Books Cataloger starting in 2011. After graduating from Purdue University with a degree in theater, Andrew came to Indiana University Bloomington where he earned an MA in Theater and Drama in 2006 and an MLS with a specialization in rare books and manuscripts in 2008. Earlier this year, Andrew won the "Attitude Matters Award" from the IU Libraries and received a scholarship to attend the 2013 ACRL Rare Books and Manuscripts Section Preconference where he presented a poster session on cataloging screenplays entitled "Lights, Camera ... Catalog!".
