This class will begin the week prior to the official start of classes for the Fall semester. In addition to attending this class once a week, participants will also be expected to observe 6 weeks of the associated undergraduate elementary methods courses (E 343 and E 328) and 2 weeks of the M 201 field experience. These observations will begin the 2nd week of classes and will end around IU's fall break. There are five sections of each class available to choose from each week. Some of these observation hours will count towards class contact time so the final meeting day for this class will be adjusted. Further information regarding the modified class schedule will be shared in the syllabus the first day of class.

For science education doctoral students this course can count towards one of the two methods courses required for your program of studies.

Bike races to ice plunges ^ Campus traditions are as varied as the students who participate. So what makes a campus tradition? Come learn about how campus traditions, both sanctioned and unsanctioned, are developed. You will discover how college traditions can create a sense of community and belonging or, on the other hand, lead to exclusion or potential legal ramifications. As a class, we will explore the value of campus traditions on the student experience and the role different institutional stakeholders play in upholding or disavowing certain tradition

 Over the years, students have demanded a revised higher education curriculum by demanding the inclusion of diverse perspectives and voices, use of inclusive pedagogies, and requirement of diversity courses. In the 1960s, African American, Chicano, Asian American, and Native American student activists came together to demand a curricula and programs that reflected the histories, experiences, and needs of people of color (Lee, 2015). Even today over two-thirds of the student demands on TheDemands.org focus on an engaged and relevant curriculum (Chessman & Wayt, 2016). Using a variety of mediums, including readings and videos, this course will examine the ways student activism have and continue to play a key role in envisioning and demanding a more relevant education

F 450 : Students in the above class should be aware that a flexible schedule is required when scheduling coachings with their faculty coach. Students must attend the Chamber Music course meeting held in the first week of classes to find out important information regarding group sign-up and placement auditions. Time and location of the meetings will be announced to enrolled students and will be posted on the chamber music website at HTTP://TINYURL.COM/NQWQRQM. All members of the group must be enrolled in MUS-F450 or F550, unless making up an incomplete. Students must obtain the permission and signature of a faculty coach for their group and receive seven coachings, performing at least once in a public setting. Groups that are unable to find a chamber coach will be assigned to a faculty member by the Head of Chamber Music. Visit the above chamber music website for further details on guidelines and required paperwork or email chmusic@indiana.edu with questions.
