THE STAR-SPANGLED BANNER

O say, can you see, by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight's last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars, through the perilous fight,
O'er the ramparts we watched, were so gallantly streaming?
And the rockets' red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there.
O say, does that Star-Spangled Banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

HAIL TO OLD I.U.

Come and join in song together,
Shout with might and main;
Our beloved Alma Mater,
Sound her praise again.

Chorus

Gloriana, Frangipana,
E'er to her be true;
She's the pride of Indiana,
Hail to old I.U.!

COMMENCEMENT CEREMONIES

The audience is requested to remain seated until the last graduate has exited the hall.

The exercises of the forty-fifth annual Commencement are enacted today at Indiana University South Bend. The counterpart of the pageantry enacted each year on campuses all over the world is the solemn climax and recognition of the graduates' years of study and preparation for responsibility.

To help spectators understand the significance of the ceremony, the following description is furnished.

PROCESSION

Leading the procession is the grand marshal, bearing the ceremonial Mace. The grand marshal is attired in a white brocade gown with panels trimmed in red velvet. The grand marshal's cap is burgundy red velvet with a gold metallic tassel. A gold satin sash with gold tassels hangs from the shoulder. Immediately following the grand marshal are the president and members of the trustees of the university. The president, as his badge of office, wears a jewel, emblematic of the history of the state and of the university. Other marshals wear shoulder sashes of various colors and designs.

Led by the marshals, the candidates march behind the banners of the respective divisions and schools that recommend them for their degrees. These schools and divisions are:

- School of the Arts
- School of Business and Economics
- School of Continuing Studies
- School of Education
- College of Health Sciences
- College of Liberal Arts and Sciences
- School of Social Work

As the candidates reach their seats, the members of the faculties of Indiana University South Bend march in, wearing the colorful hoods of the colleges and universities from which they graduated. The climax of the processional is the platform party, which includes deans and other personnel and the distinguished alumnus.

The trustees of the university can be identified by their red velvet gowns, which have red velvet panels and red velvet chevrons on the sleeves. The panels and chevrons are outlined in cream, and an Indiana University seal appears on the

ACADEMIC ATTIRE

All candidates for degrees and those who hold degrees, including university officials and faculty and visiting dignitaries, are attired in traditional caps and gowns. The basic color for most caps and gowns is formal black. However, recipients of different degrees wear distinctive tassels on their caps (the flat, square caps are called mortarboards) and hoods of various hues draped down the backs of the gowns.

CAPS

Candidates for the degrees wear the regulation caps with the tassel color appropriate to the degree being conferred. The tassel colors are:

- Arts—Copper
- Business and Economics—Drab
- Continuing Studies—Gray and White
- Dentistry—Lilac
- Education—Light Blue
- Labor Studies—Nile Green
- Liberal Arts and Sciences—White
- Nursing and Health Professions—Apricot
- Public and Environmental Affairs—Peacock Blue
- Radiography—Kelly Green
- Social Work—Citron

GOWNS

The bachelor's and associate's gowns have a closed front and open sleeves. The master's gown has extremely long, closed sleeves, from which the arms extend through a slit at the wrist; the end of the sleeve is square, with an arc cut away just above the bottom. The doctor's gown has velvet panels down the front and voluminous bell-shaped sleeves on which there are three velvet bars.

HOODS

The bachelor's hood, worn by those who have already received bachelor's degrees, is rather short with a narrow velvet edging in a color matching the tassel and a lining in the color or colors of the institution—crimson at Indiana University.

The master's hood is considerably longer, has a wider velvet edging, and exposes more of the lining.

The doctor's hood is easily recognized by the width of the velvet edging, the wide panels at either side, the greater length, and the full exposure of the lining. The colors of the edging most frequently seen are royal blue for philosophy, green for medicine, purple for law, and light blue for education; the colors for the honorary doctoral degrees are purple for Doctor of Laws, white for Doctor of Humane Letters, pink for Doctor of Music, and golden yellow for Doctor of Science.

GRADUATING WITH DISTINCTION

Indiana University holds all of its graduates in high esteem and takes an added measure of pride in those who have excelled academically. Candidates who are graduating with distinction, high distinction, and highest distinction are entitled to wear on their left shoulders the fourragère, cream and crimson cords. In addition, on some campuses, qualified students are entitled to wear gold medallions indicating that they are graduating with honors.

The recorders in each school distribute fourragères to qualified students before Commencement. The requirements for graduating with honors are different for each school.

HONORS CORDS

Graduates who are members of nearly 60 nationally recognized honor societies may wear their societies' honors cords or medallions during Commencement.

SYMBOLS

Traditional in all formal ceremonies of Indiana University are the Mace, symbol of authority; the Jewel of Office, emblematic of the Office of the President; and the Collar of the Jewel of Office. The first is carried in the academic procession by the grand marshal, and the last two are worn by the president. In design and ornamentation they represent significant events in the history of the state of Indiana and of the university.

The treasured symbols were presented to the university by its chapters of the Miami Triad in celebrating their centennials. The Jewel of Office was presented by Beta Theta Pi in 1945; the Mace by Phi Delta Theta in 1949; and the Collar of the Jewel of Office by Sigma Chi in 1958.

THE HISTORY OF ACADEMIC ATTIRE

Academic costume of today has a history of nearly eight centuries. In medieval Europe, all townspeople—men and women—wore long, flowing robes and gowns. The materials and colors varied according to the wealth and rank of the individual and were governed by royal decree. Gradually, there developed distinctive gowns for the various professions, trades, and guilds.

Students in the medieval universities of Paris, Bologna, Oxford, and Cambridge organized themselves into guilds. Their usual garb, a long gown, was necessary for warmth in the unheated buildings. Scholars, generally members of church orders, wore these robes and also hoods to protect their shaved heads. Later, skull caps were worn on the head, and the hood became a cape that could be pulled over the head in unpleasant weather. As additional universities were founded, distinctive forms of the gown and hood were adapted by their faculties for bachelors (apprentices of arts), masters (teachers), and doctors (teachers who had completed postgraduate studies). The variations appeared mostly in the hood and were regulated by strict rules. Tailors who departed from the authorized design could be punished. When caps and hats came into fashion in the fifteenth century, the hoods became ornamental, draped over the shoulders and down the back.

The academic hat was adapted from the headdress of ordinary people. It was first worn as a symbol of the master's degree and existed in various forms. Some caps were stiff, some soft, some square, some round with a tuft in the center. The tassel of today is an elaboration of the tuft. The mortarboard style comes to us from Oxford.

When academic costume came to America in 1754, styles varied. In Europe they still do; however, in our country, usage has been standardized by the Intercollegiate Code of Academic Costume.

INDIANA UNIVERSITY SOUTH BEND DISTINGUISHED ALUMNI AWARD

Christine Lauber

Christine Lauber is the picture of a successful accountant. For nearly 30 years, she has owned a thriving certified public accountant firm in South Bend that bears her name. In 1997 she wrote the book Anatomy of Accounting, which was published by Pragmatic Press. She's taught the subject to hundreds of Indiana University South Bend students as an adjunct faculty member in the IU South Bend School of Business and Economics. The funny thing is that she was supposed to be a physician. "I originally went to Northwestern University for premed," she recalls. "But I crashed and burned in chemistry—I flunked it—and I figured I'd never make it to medical school."

Chastened by that experience, Lauber left Northwestern in the middle of her junior year and came back home to South Bend. She knew she had to get her life back on track, especially after her mother advised her to "go back to school, get a job, or get out." On a whim, she enrolled in an accounting course at the South Bend College of Commerce. She took to it immediately. "By the time I got to Chapter Five in that first book, I got it," she says. "I was naturally inclined to it."

She transferred to IU South Bend soon after to earn her degree in business. And that's when her long association with the campus began. After completing her Bachelor of Science in Business degree from IU South Bend, Lauber went on to earn both her Master of Science in Business Administration and Master of Business Administration.

"I feel so grateful for my experiences at IU South Bend," she says. "The College of Commerce was great, but I still felt somewhat defeated and lost after leaving Northwestern. My ego still needed to be repaired. IU South Bend made me armed and dangerous—I felt like my degree gave me something in my toolbox that I could use in the world."

She's never forgotten that feeling, and over the years Lauber has been very loyal to her alma mater. She served on the faculty of IU South Bend's Continuing Education program from 1984 to 1995 and was an adjunct faculty member in the undergraduate program for the School of Business and Economics from 1995 to 2002. She stays connected with IU South Bend in other ways, too.

"Christine Lauber has been a committed alum, an active participant on the Business Advisory Council of the School of Business and Economics, and a good customer of the school's most important product, its students," says Robert Ducoffe, dean and professor of marketing at IU South Bend's School of Business and Economics. "Over the years, Christine has hired interns and full-time employees who have received their accounting training and academic degrees from IU South Bend."

By owning a South Bend business, Lauber is simply furthering her family's path. She comes from what she calls a "pretty entrepreneurial family." Her mother was a physician with her own practice while her father owned J. C. Lauber Sheet Metal Company, formed in 1890. In fact, she worked at the sheet metal company while going to IU South Bend. There was a nice overlap between the two pursuits. "It was good to be working in business and accounting while I was learning it," she says. "That was a great dual education!"

Since discovering her affinity for accounting decades ago, Lauber has distinguished herself as a leader in the field. She has served on multiple committees for the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Indiana CPA Society and has chaired organizations such as the Indiana State Board of Accountancy, the Business Development Corporation, and the Chamber of Commerce of St. Joseph County.

"Many serve on the boards of our various business, professional, and community organizations. When Chris does so, she immerses herself and takes the lead," says Michael J. Wargo, chief operating officer of the Foundation for the Center for Hospice and Palliative Care Inc. and the 2010 recipient of the IU South Bend Distinguished Alumni Award. "Her commitment to any cause in which she becomes involved is nothing short of inspirational."

INDIANA UNIVERSITY SOUTH BEND

Although Indiana University began offering classes in South Bend more than 80 years ago, certain events mark turning points in the university's history. One of the most significant occurred in the spring of 1967, when the first degrees were awarded at South Bend, marking the emergence of Indiana University South Bend as a comprehensive university campus serving the region.

In 1922 Indiana University scheduled its first classes in the South Bend area, primarily to help local teachers meet licensing requirements. During the Great Depression of the 1930s, Indiana University recognized the need to provide a broader range of higher education opportunities in home communities; as a result, the South Bend–Mishawaka Extension Center was established to offer a basic two-year program. Administrative offices were located in Central High School, and classes were offered during late afternoon and evening hours in the school and in the downtown YWCA.

After a decline in attendance during the war years, returning veterans contributed to a post-war enrollment rise, which launched the center into a major period of growth. In the late 1950s, a site adjacent to the St. Joseph River in South Bend was acquired for a new campus with the help of South Bend officials, organizations, and individuals.

In 1961 the move was made into the first new facility, Northside Hall. A second building was acquired in 1966, and a third structure was completed in 1969. A major addition to Northside Hall opened in 1972. In 1975 Indiana University purchased land and property from Associates Corporation of North America, which doubled the size of the South Bend campus. Indiana University South Bend began using some of these properties in 1977. The Franklin D. Schurz Library opened in the spring of 1989. In April of 1998, Dorothy and Darwin Wiekamp Hall was opened. The IUSB Art Gallery opened in 2000, and the Student Activities Center in 2002. That year, the School of the Arts was renamed the Ernestine M. Raclin School of the Arts. In 2006, the pedestrian bridge across the St. Joseph River opened, linking the main campus to 25 acres where student housing opened in 2008. A refurbished building for Education, Arts, and Health Sciences will open in 2013.

Just as the campus physical plant expanded during the 1960s, the center experienced a major period of academic development, emerging as a comprehensive degree-granting institution. In 1963 it became a regional campus, and soon afterward the first four-year degree programs were authorized. In 1967 the first seniors to graduate from the South Bend campus received their degrees. The following year, the campus became Indiana University at South Bend, a title indicating another new level in its academic development and status within Indiana University.

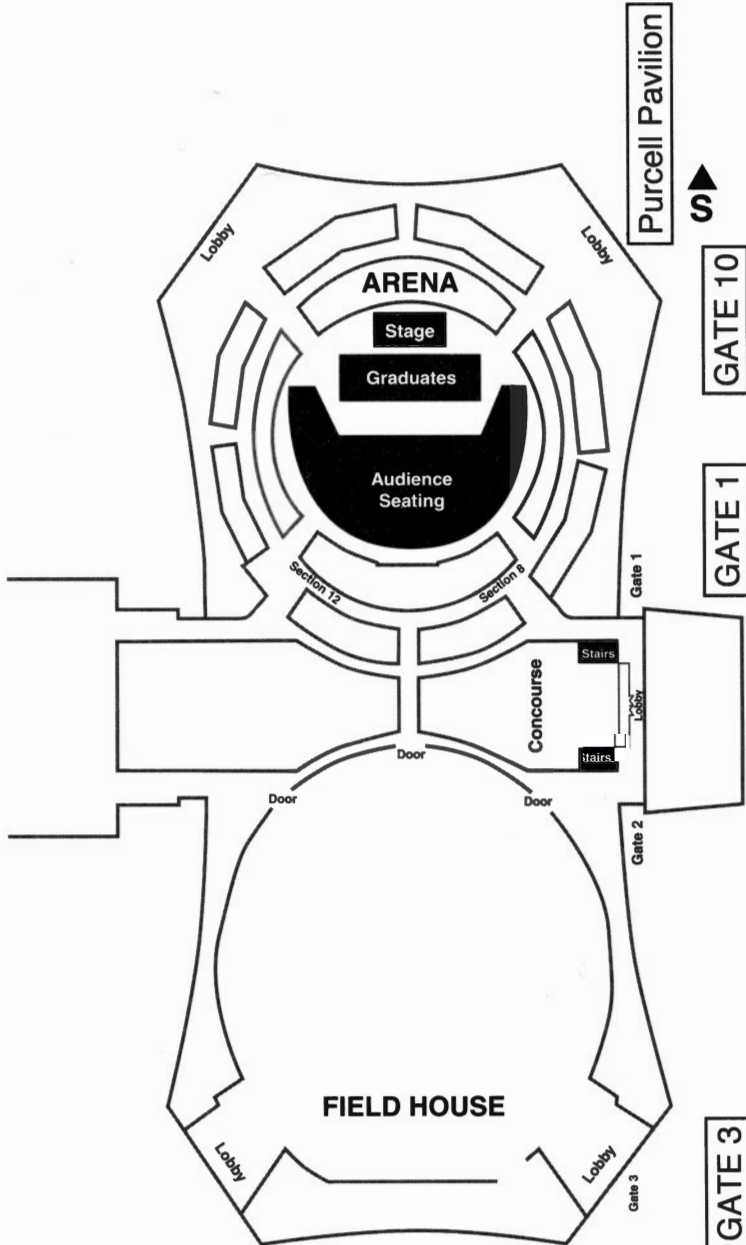

Today Indiana University South Bend is the acknowledged "University that Educates Michiana," serving higher education needs of the community with a diverse, highly respected academic program and actively planning how to continue meeting those needs well into the future.

The nearly 8,400 students now attending Indiana University South Bend can choose from more than 100 fields of undergraduate study or from master's degree programs in business, education, liberal studies, music, nursing, social work, or public affairs.
